

Mercer County Calls 20 Persons to Talk Before Grand Jury on Tuesday

Francis A. Madden, of Brooklyn, Questions New Jersey Commissioner of Institutions Today on Facts of Wendel Case.

NOT INFORMED

Ellis Says He Knew Wendel Was at New Lisbon, But Not as a Suspect.

Trenton, N. J., April 9 (AP)—Francis A. Madden, assistant district attorney of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is investigating Paul H. Wendel's story he was tortured into "confessing" the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, questioned William J. Ellis, commissioner of state institutions, today.

Meantime, the Mercer county prosecutor's office subpoenaed about 20 persons to appear before the grand jury next Tuesday when it resumes its investigation of the Wendel case. The list includes Gustav Lockwood, state motor vehicle inspector, for whose acts Governor Harold C. Hoffman has assumed "full responsibility."

An automobile number which Wendel jotted down in his vest and which he said was that of a car accompanying the one in which he was taken from Mt. Holly, N. J., to the State Colony for Feebleminded at New Lisbon, N. J., on February 24 correspond to that of a state car assigned to Lockwood.

Madden asked Ellis when he knew of Wendel's voluntary "detention," at the state colony where he was taken after "confessing" in New York he kidnapped the baby. Ellis said he had been informed by Dr. Carroll T. Jones, superintendent of the institution that Wendel was there, but that neither he nor Jones knew Wendel was held in connection with the Lindbergh case.

To Cooperate Fully.

Ellis said he told Madden he would cooperate with him fully.

Among those who were expected to be called before the grand jury Tuesday were Ellis H. Parker, chief of the Burlington county detectives, who obtained a second "confession" from Wendel at New Lisbon, and Parker's secretary, Mrs. Anna Bading. Wendel has repudiated his "confession" and denied he was involved in the case.

Marshall would not name any one to be called before the grand jury, but it was understood the list included Ellis H. Parker, chief of Burlington county detectives; Mrs. Anna Bading, his secretary; and Walter Yoon, her brother.

James S. Kirkham, the Mercer county detective who formally charged Wendel with the crime in a dramatic move the night before Bruno Richard Hauptmann was to die in the electric chair for the kidnapping, is also expected to be called.

The grand jury, after an all-day questioning of Parker and his secretary, arranged for a 72-hour delay of execution at that time.

A few hours before Hauptmann was electrocuted, the grand jury voted to "discontinue" consideration of the Wendel case, but did not vote a "no bill."

Wendel, a disabled Trenton lawyer wanted by Mercer county authorities on several minor charges, said he was held prisoner in Brooklyn ten days by four men who "tortured" him into "confessing" he kidnapped the Lindbergh baby.

Geoghan questioned a New York advertising man, Edwin Carlin, who reported he overheard two men at a hotel discussing a plot such as the one in which Wendel said he was forced to make a false statement.

Geoghan also conferred with Assistant U. S. District Attorney David Gatman in Brooklyn last night, stirring a surmise the federal government might yet take over the investigation, in which the Federal Bureau of Investigation previously had declined interest.

Meanwhile, a new and undisclosed lead supplied by U. S. Attorney Leo J. Hickey, caused another investigation by Geoghan's associates. What the nature of the information was, Geoghan refused to say.

Charges Denied.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 9 (AP)—The State WPA denied today charges by Stephen Raushenbush, chairman of the Pennsylvania Security League, that political material was distributed in workers' pay envelopes. Officials declined to discuss Raushenbush's allegations, saying "it's a closed issue and we refused him some time ago." Edward N. Jones, state administrator, was not available. Raushenbush named Jones responsible for the distribution.

19 Found Child Born.

Youngstown, O., April 9 (AP)—Officials disclosed today the still birth of a 19-pound daughter to Mrs. H. R. Grant, negro, at nearby New Middletown last Sunday. The physicians said they took clinical measurements of the dead infant for medical journals. Mrs. Grant, 42, and weighing more than 240 pounds, is making a satisfactory recovery.

$50,000,000 Loans For Storm-Torn Districts

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The Senate today approved a bill authorizing $50,000,000 of reconstruction corporation loans under liberal terms to flood and storm-torn districts of the south and east.

It returns to the House for action on amendments. The Senate amended the measure by increasing the loan authority from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 and added also authorization for more liberal loan insurance under the National Housing act.

Amendments were attached from the floor further to broaden scope of the bill. One by Senator Austin (R-Vt.) would permit loans for highways and bridges in addition to those it would have authorized, including financing repair, or reconstruction of water, irrigation, gas, electric, sewer, drainage, flood control, communication or transportation systems.

Benedictine Ball Proceeds Help to Cut Annual Deficit

During the last year 3,258 patients have been treated at the Benedictine Hospital free of charge, according to figures submitted in the annual report of the institution. These figures are of interest to those who support the annual Easter Monday Ball of the hospital auxiliary, funds from which affair go toward making up the annual deficit of the hospital incurred through such philanthropies as the above figures show.

Questioned about the use of the proceeds of the ball, hospital authorities explained, that few persons realized the great amount of free service rendered by the hospital. A substantial part of the number of patients are able to pay only a portion of their bills, and some of them are unable to pay anything. Yet the hospital cannot refuse to admit a patient until the financial standing is scanned. Patients are admitted when they need treatment and hospitalization, and they are expected to pay, but if they are unable the hospital cannot turn them out and operate the same as a department store, it was explained.

In addition to these charges assumed by the hospital, it is pointed out that constant research is being brought to bring the hospital up to the latest in efficiency for the use of the doctors and the benefit of the patients, that repairs must be made and the improvements in the building are added from time to time. These advantages have made it possible to lessen the duration of the average patient's stay at the hospital and have meant a considerable saving to him, as well as life itself in some cases.

In many cases the hospital must pay for expensive medicines, use of costly machinery and other services. Yet in a number of treatments the patients are unable to bear even this share of the burden, authorities stated. Hence it is easily seen that the hospital cannot operate on an ordinary business basis, but must depend upon the contributions of interested persons, who know that the money will go for the common good.

For this reason the hospital auxiliary each year holds its Easter Ball, and this year again the auxiliary asks some generous patronage of the townspeople as in part, that the hospital may operate for the coming year with the same high standards as in the past.

Richmond, Va., April 9 (AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today denied a motion of Greenwood county, South Carolina, and the Public Works Administration to vacate a stay of mandate granted the Duke Power Company in connection with the court's denial of the company's petition for an injunction to prevent construction of a proposed power plant at Buzzard's Roost.

Decision of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to close the bus terminal and parking grounds on Crown street has brought about a movement to seek another spot where busses can stop.

Matthew H. Herzog, president of the Uptown Business Men's Association, this morning told a reporter that plans are under way to make a terminal on North Front street, right in the business section.

The new terminal if present plans go through, will be on the lot 95 by 180 feet adjacent to the tailor shop of Philip Aduchefsky, 89 North Front street, and the shop will be made over into a waiting room.

Mr. Aduchefsky will continue his tailor business, removing his workshop into another portion of his building.

The Metropolitan Life Company ordered its Crown street property blocked to busses Tuesday. A rope was stretched across the front driveway, barring all traffic. This action was taken as a precaution against damage suits, it is presumed, because no one was in charge of the property.

William D. Brinnier, attorney for the insurance company here, was out of town when a reporter called at his office and thus the expression of the company on the matter could not be had.

Herzog Tells of Action.

Matthew Herzog said he took up the matter of the terminal with the Metropolitan some time ago, but the company was disinterested. He was told several buyers were interested in the terminal with intentions of using it as a warehouse site.

Max Aduchefsky, who managed the terminal from October last year until April 1, while Lyman T. Schoonmaker, local contractor ran it, said he too had interviewed Metropolitan officials in New York and they were disinterested in propositions to continue the terminal.

"I asked for a lease with intentions of taking over the terminal myself," he said today, "but the insurance people said they would not consider my proposition. They had several buyers interested. I was informed, and didn't care to lease the property even for a month."

Aduchefsky Experienced.

Aduchefsky is an experienced bus terminal operator, having worked in the Bronx before he started as manager of the uptown bus stop for Mr. Schoonmaker.

Although Mr. Herzog and members of the Uptown Business Men's Association were prone to take up matters with the Metropolitan immediately after the terminal was roped off on Tuesday, they decided to wait a day or two before making the plan suggested by Mr. Aduchefsky about making a new terminal on North Front street.

"It is a good spot," said Mr. Herzog, "and there should be less congestion of traffic, besides being handier for the busses coming into the business section."

Silent on Proposition.

Mr. Aduchefsky when seen chose to remain silent about the proposition until further developments. "I am to meet with bus operators this afternoon," he said, "and after the conference there should be something to announce."

It is the hope of Mr. Aduchefsky that all of the bus line operators will be in harmony with the new terminal plan, so that immediate action may be taken. Considerable work will be necessary to turn the property considered into a bus stop, but when the job is done, the terminal will be one of the most modern, Aduchefsky says.

Bus operators who have already expressed themselves as agreeable to the North Front street terminal are those running the lines from Albany, New York, Ellenville, Woodstock and Pine Hill. With these five ready to change the location, it is expected that the others, including East Kingston, Creek Locks, Saugerties and Rosendale bus men, will follow suit.

Since the Crown street terminal, formerly the old Van Roes Hotel site, has been closed, busses have been forced to take on and discharge their passengers at the curb outside the grounds. This adds to traffic congestion on the narrow street, and means added vigilance on the part of the patrolmen on the corner of Crown and John streets. His job will be more exacting when No. 7 Public School resumes after the Easter vacation. His chief duty is to protect the children, besides handling traffic.

Bus Information.

Information on buses, states a sign posted in the door of the former terminal, may be had at the lunch room of Al Klaus, next to the old waiting room which is closed.

Landon Backers Hail New Signs of Support in Midwest Areas Today

Senator Borah and Colonel Frank Knox Make Final Plans for Tuesday's Illinois Primary; Minnesota Backing Landon.

BORAH JUBILANT

Idahoan Tells Peoria, Big Business Cannot Control Him, If He Should Become President.

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The Landon-for-President movement hailed renewed evidences of support in a midwest sector today while Senator Borah and Colonel Frank Knox made final plans for Tuesday's Illinois primary—the first man-to-man contest in the pre-convention campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Governor Alf. M. Landon, Kansas Republican who has remained silent on the question of candidacy while supporters for many months have been rounding up convention votes for him, yesterday won additional backing in Minnesota.

Sentiment for Landon predominated as seven district conventions picked 14 uninstructed delegates to the Republican National Convention. The results, along with delegate selections previously made, assured Landon that at least 12 of Minnesota's 22 votes would tend to gravitate toward his camp, though officially unpledged.

Observers in St. Paul indicated that four delegates-at-large, yet to be picked, would be friendly to Landon. Under the unit rule, all of Minnesota's 22 votes thus would go into the Landon column at the convention, at least on the initial ballots.

Sentiment for Others.

Besides the delegates friendly to Landon, there also will be some sentiment for Knox and Borah in the state's delegation.

Borah, fresh from preferential primary victory over an uninstructed slate in Wisconsin, where he captured 21 of the 24 votes, was jubilant as he plunged into a four-day campaign, before the Illinois balloting.

Asserting big business interests "can't control me if I should become president," the Idahoan told a Peoria audience last night.

"One of the dupont dynasty, which has been building for 100 years by exploiting the common people, said I was a dangerous man. He said he would take anybody but me for president."

"Thank God I have not lived in vain when I can convince those men and the Standard and Sun Oil Companies that they can't control me if I should become president."

Both Borah and Knox claim Illinois. Knox who has the endorsement of the state central committee, has just completed a state-wide drive.

Definite Assurance.

Knox last night was given definite assurance of support from eight of the 11 delegates from New Hampshire. Although the delegates were elected last month as unpledged, they were in favor of Knox. After a conference at Concord, they agreed to back him. The other delegates, absent from the meeting, were expected to concur.

With President Roosevelt on his way back toward the capital, the capital looked to him for a possible pronouncement bearing on the coming campaign. The chief executive has a speaking engagement in Baltimore Monday but he has not announced his subject.

Two Men Killed.

Hamilton, O., April 9 (AP)—A young airport manager and his passenger were killed last night when their small two-seater open cockpit plane crashed on a farm near here. Investigators sought to determine the cause. Elmer Threiner, 28, manager of the North Hamilton field and Frederick Sherer, 13, were the victims.

Services At Vatican.

Vatican City, April 9 (AP)—Tolling bells and organ music, ending in sudden silence, signaled today the opening of Maundy Thursday services, commemorating Christ's institution of the Eucharist. The period of silence in mourning for the passion and death of Christ will last until Saturday.

League Sends Supreme Plea To Italy to End Gas Attacks; French Warning to Germans

French Ministers Tell Eden Today, if Nazi Violations Continue, They'll Take Any Steps Situation May Justify.

LONDON LUKEWARM

Reich Press, However, Comes Out With Broadside of Criticism Against French Proposals.

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

Geneva, April 9—French ministers have informed British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that if Germany, continuing its violation of treaties, erects fortifications along the Rhine, France reserves the right to take any steps the situation may justify.

The French pointed out that building of fortifications in the Rhineland zone, already remilitarized by the Reich in defiance of the Versailles treaty and Locarno pact, would be another direct violation of the Versailles agreement which ended the World War.

What new steps France might consider were not disclosed, but Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin's attitude made it clear that France attached greater importance to the question of fortifications.

The French stand was disclosed while the League of Nations, seeking to avert any Italo-Ethiopian settlement enforced by Fascist arms and alleged gas attacks, pressed both belligerents for definite statements of their terms for peace negotiations.

The French indicated that German erection of fortifications on France's eastern frontier would certainly be likely to render extremely difficult the negotiations for a new security system in Europe.

No Time Limit.

Flandin and Joseph Paul-Boncour, French minister of state, also told Eden they were placing no time limit on the period of their negotiations with Germany.

They said they were willing to go forward with general conversations for "new deal" in Europe, reserving France's rights, however, concerning the Rhineland situation.

Widespread skepticism arose among the French themselves today over their government's new plan for peace in Europe, stirring strong attacks from the opposition.

Veteran French diplomats were represented as believing the proposals were "wholly impracticable" and certain not to be adopted as a solution to the crisis caused by Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland in violation of the Versailles and Locarno treaties.

Rightists criticized the plan as too international and too visionary, while some Leftist sources feared some proposals, including a preferential tariff among members of a European union, would "tend to destroy the universal character of the League."

This broad skepticism was reflected in an unfavorable reception by a large section of the French press to the plan.

Pertinax, noted foreign affairs expert, writing in the Echo de Paris, said: "The plan resembles an election poster, stringing together all Geneva dreams from 1924 to 1931."

The peace proposals were based on "collective security," with regional mutual assistance pacts to be backed up by an international army under a "European commission" of the League of Nations.

Lukewarm Reception.

London, April 9 (AP)—France's All-European security plan received a lukewarm reception in the British press today.

Newspapers generally urged Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's government to resume its own efforts to bring the other powers together to devise a settlement of the crisis resulting from the German breaking of the Versailles and Locarno treaties.

Joseph von Ribbentrop, who represented Adolf Hitler in the recent London negotiations for a settlement of the crisis, left by airplane today for Berlin.

He made no arrangements for a return to London.

Reich Broadside.

Berlin, April 9 (AP)—The Reich press directed a broadside of criticism today against the French plan for European peace.

So unambiguous was the condemnation by Berlin newspapers of the French proposals, based in rebuttal to those by Adolf Hitler, that informed sources said it was indicated this attitude was ordered from "somewhere higher up."

The Kreuz Zeitung headlined its editorial, "France's Historic Mistake," declaring the French program for regional mutual assistance pacts, supported by an international army under the League of Nations, must be rejected.

"If France believes it can continue to employ the same methods with which it has suppressed people for two decades, then this is not only an error by its statesmen but a mistake which must lead to catastrophe, not only for Germany but for all European nations," the newspaper asserted.

Survivors Will Aid Quiz in Plane Crash, Hostess Recovering

MISS NELLIE GRANGER

Uniontown, Pa., April 9 (AP)—Workmen went up on High Chestnut Ridge today to touch off a giant bonfire which will consume the last of the luxury airliner Sun Racer, whose crash on the fog-shrouded mountain took 11 lives.

William Cunningham, chief of the Pennsylvania Aeronautical Bureau, commanded the crew piling in one big heap the shredded fabric, broken wood and bent metal of the ship.

The broken instruments and other parts of the shattered liner which may be needed in the investigation were removed yesterday.

Fire which broke out after the disaster Tuesday morning consumed part of the nine-ton TWA liner.

While Cunningham went ahead with his task, four Department of Commerce representatives assembled for an open hearing on the crash.

The Commerce Department inquiry was only one of four underway. TWA officials conducted their own investigation, the U. S. Senate's Air Safety Committee directed an inquiry and Coroner S. A. Baliz of Fayette county assembled a jury.

The three survivors of the crash are expected to recover. They are Miss Nellie Granger, who, although hurt, stumbled miles through the forest to tell of the crash; C. C. Chailinor, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Hilda Ellenstein, wife of the mayor of Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Ellenstein is the most critically injured. Physicians reported she rallied after a second blood transfusion yesterday.

Senator Royal S. Copeland (D-N.Y.) in announcing at Washington he had ordered a safety committee investigator to Uniontown said: "It seems that the question to determine is what caused the pilot to be off his course when the plane crashed. We want to find out about the radio beam service."

Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper announced a check of radio beacons at Pittsburgh showed them in operation.

Jack Frye, president of TWA, said in New York he had been unable to determine if an interruption in the beam was a contributory cause of the crash.

WATCHMAN BADLY BURNED BY ACID SPRAYING HOODLUMS

Troy, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Two men broke into a cleaning plant early today, sprayed acid on suits and dresses, and then turned the spray on a watchman who interrupted them.

The watchman, Armen Kazankin, 28, was severely burned. A physician said he might lose the sight of one eye.

An official of the company, the Commodore Cleaners, estimated that clothing worth more than $5,000 was damaged.

Farrar Estate Sold.

Ridgedale, Conn., April 9 (AP)—Sale of the 49-acre estate of the late Shiner Farrar, father of Geraldine Farrar, famous opera singer, to Nelson Abbott of East Ridge, was disclosed today. The property consists of the Farrar home, land on North Salem road and other buildings.

Miss Farrar, executrix of her father's $50,000 estate, has arranged for a public auction of the household effects April 14.

First Year Death.

Minneapolis, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Walter Barlow, a student pilot, was near death today after his first solo flight ended in a fatal mid-air collision over Roosevelt Field. John Mendillo, 22, of Scarsdale, pilot of the other ship, died in the crash yesterday 300 feet above the Long Island Airport. His injured instructor, Douglas Turnbull, was reported improving. As the ship struck, Turnbull said, Mendillo turned and yelled to him: "So long, old timer!"

Committee of 13 Acts on Recommendation of Anthony Eden, Without Passing on Previous Allegations.

TWO PLEDGES

Impartial Ruling Demands That Both Italy and Ethiopia Avoid Use of Poisonous Gas.

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY (Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

Geneva, April 9—The committee of thirteen of the League of Nations decided today to send a supreme appeal to Italy and Ethiopia to abstain from the use of poison gas in the East African war.

The decision, made on the recommendation of Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, was approved without passing on allegations that Italy has already used gas in her Ethiopian invasion.

The committee action urges the two governments to observe the provisions of the anti-gas convention and followed an appeal by Eden to Italy not to use poison gas against Ethiopia.

He made his appeal shortly after French ministers informed him that if Germany should continue its violation of treaties through erecting fortifications along the Rhine, France reserved the right to take any steps she felt the situation justified.

In a meeting of the League council's committee of 13—which comprises every member of the council except Italy—Eden also demanded an immediate investigation to determine the truth of allegations that the Italian forces in Ethiopia are using deadly gases.

Impartial Attitude.

The British cabinet minister suggested that, in order to make the League's attitude impartial, both Italy and Ethiopia give pledges not to resort to the use of gas, prohibited under international treaties.

Eden remarked that when armies used poison gas it was always with the approval of their high command, insinuating that Premier Mussolini's general staff authorized the use of gas.

Eden declared it was known, that, since the beginning of hostilities, Italy had shipped 253 tons of poison gas through the Suez canal.

League officials announced France and Great Britain have reached an agreement to propose adjournment of the committee of 13 until April 21 to give Salvador D. De Madariaga Spanish delegate charged with exploring East African peace proposals, time to institute negotiations.

The committee presumably will adjourn tomorrow or Saturday.

Selassie Shave Reported.

Rome, April 9 (AP)—A report from the Northern Field Headquarters to Stefani (Italian) new agency said today Emperor Haile Selassie, the last remnants of his bodyguard fleeing "in panic," shaved off his beard to escape recognition and capture.

The Emperor, whose personal troops were defeated by the Fascist forces on the northern front last week, was reported to be in a region of revolting Azebo and Galla northern tribesmen.

The defeat of the Imperial bodyguard Stefani reports said caused a great "political repercussion" among tribesmen.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio reported today in his was communique, "submissions of chiefs and notables continue in the Gondar region (just north of Lake Tana, on the southern front), with manifestations of popular adhesion."

"Aviation has been most active in pursuit of the enemy and in supplying our advanced columns, en route to the south."

The Italian government reported officially today that 404 Fascist workmen died in Ethiopia from January 1, 1935, to March 31, 1936. The number included 64 killed by Ethiopian near Aksum.

Variety Program At Rotary Luncheon

A variety entertainment was the program feature at the weekly meeting of the local Rotary Club in the Governor Clinton Hotel yesterday noon. The program of local artists was arranged by Sam Scudder, Jr., and the guests were introduced by Alfred Schmid in Mr. Scudder's absence. Much of the program's success was due to the assistance of Mrs. William Mills, who graciously gave her time and talent by playing the piano accompaniment for two of the soloists.

First to appear on the musical program was Jessie Cowley Wolfenstein, who is well known in music circles in this vicinity. Mrs. Wolfenstein sang three selections, "In An Old Fashioned Town" by W. H. Squire, "L'Amour Toujours" by L'Amour" by Rudolf Friml and "I Dream Too Much" by Jerome Kern. All of her selections were greeted with applause.

Donald C. Clark was the next artist and Mr. Clark pleased his listeners with "The Hills of Home" by Oscar Fox, "Duna" by Josephine McGilli and "The Big Brown Bear" by Mana Succi.

The last musician on the enjoyable program was young Joe Vigna of Glasco. The youthful Mr. Vigna straddled his accordion on his shoulders and gave his audience 10 minutes of melody, mixing both classical and modern music into his short program.

During the short business session that followed the luncheon, Rotary members balloted for three new directors to fill the vacancy of those men whose office expired. The new directors chosen were Emil Boeckneck, Irving Kauder and Alfred Schmid.

Music Increases Eggs.

Kingston, N. C. (AP)—Crudy Sutton says 15-minute talking machine concerts are causing his hens to lay eight dozen eggs a day, whereas they formerly laid only five. The eggs, he says, also are larger and better colored.

20 Criminal Cases On Calendar Sent Out By District Attorney

A criminal calendar of 20 cases was sent out Wednesday by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray. This calendar will be taken up for disposition commencing Monday, April 13, at 2 o'clock. There are several important cases on the calendar which will probably be disposed of at this time. Among them is the Prudencio and Jose Gonzalez robbery cases which were set down last fall for trial at the April term. At that time it was consented that the cases go over until the April term on condition they be disposed of. The two Gonzalez boys are charged with having held up and robbed a number of state road workmen at a camp at Kerhonkson at the time the Minnekaqua Trail was being constructed. At the time men entered a boarding camp and stuck up the workmen and relieved them of a large sum of money, in some instances the life savings of some of the Spaniard workers.

Floyd Weeks Case

Another case which is on the calendar is that of The People vs. Floyd Weeks. Weeks is charged with having given his uncle poison which resulted fatally. The charge is attempted murder since the death of the aged man was caused by pneumonia following his admission to the hospital for poison treatment. Weeks and his uncle lived together just outside the city in the Lincoln Park section of the town of Ulster. It is charged poison was placed in a bottle of liquor and the aged man took a drink before retiring to cure a cold. Authorities claim there was a joint bank account between the two and that the residence property was also involved.

The Frank Brayton, John Knor, Isidor Paradis, arson indictment also appears on the calendar. This is a charge growing out of the burning of a bungalow and other buildings on the Knor place on the Saugerties road some time ago.

Salaky Not On Calendar

The George Salaky first degree murder case is not on the calendar as the 20 days time granted by supreme court to make further motions has not expired. Salaky is charged with shooting Harry Siegel at Ulster Heights March 16, last.

Following is the calendar.

Flood Control Group Appeals for Data

Binghamton, N. Y., April 9 (P)—The flood control council of central-southern New York appealed today for data to guide individual communities in effecting protective measures while awaiting completion of the federal flood control program.

Michael H. Cahill of Corning, president of the council and member of the state flood control commission, making the request, said he expected that "in a great many communities there may be some extreme agitation for local protective works, pending the completion of flood control measures on the headwaters of our stream system by the United States government."

He stressed the desirability of making "the important distinction as between flood control, which is of necessity a headwaters matter, brought about by detention dams and the like, and on the other hand, flood protection." He declared the latter "as a usual thing, is a strictly local affair."

Card Party

Mythic Court, Order of the Amaranth, will hold a public card party in the Masonic club rooms, 31 Albany avenue, Tuesday evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Brief Session Of County Court

Wednesday afternoon Judge Traver held a brief session of county court. A special matter from Saugerties was before the court and no civil matters were therefore taken up. None however was ready had the court been ready to proceed. A day calendar for today was made up and Judge Traver said he would give attorneys another chance to try cases. He suggested that if no civil cases were actually to be tried that the court be so notified to save the expense of bringing back jurors only to find no work for them to transact. The day calendar was:
No. 44, 18, 7, 23 and 25.

MRS. BARTHOLOMEW HOPES MOTHER LOVE WILL WIN

New York, April 9 (P)—Mrs. Lillian Mas Bartholomew, seeking to regain her 10-year-old actor son, Freddie, expressed today a hope that the claims of mother-love will win her his custody.

"I am anxious to see Freddie and take him into my arms again," she said. "No one can love a child like his mother."

Mrs. Bartholomew, who arrived yesterday from England, said she would ask the courts of California to rescind the guardianship of Freddie given to his aunt, Miss Millicent Bartholomew.

If the courts refuse, the mother said, she will appeal to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.
"I'm sure the President's wife will understand me because she is a mother too," she said.
In Hollywood, Felix Cunningham, attorney for the aunt, said:
"Most assuredly, Miss Bartholomew will resist by every legal effort any effort to take Freddie away from her."

Freddie reputedly earns salary of $1,250 a week, but Mrs. Bartholomew said she had to borrow money for third-class passage. Her husband, a wounded war veteran, holds a minor government job and receives a $90-month pension, she said.

Albany, April 9 (Special)—Under the terms of a bill introduced by Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, an official referee may hold a non-salaried office in the state education system. The bill was introduced at the short session on Wednesday, and amends the Judiciary law so as to permit any official referee to hold a non-salaried office in the state education system. The bill was referred to the senate committee on judiciary.

Schultz Aids Ask To Meet Up With Law

Syracuse, N. Y., April 9 (P)—Survivors of the circle of intimates once attached to the late Dutch Schultz exhibited today an apparently sincere if belated desire to meet up with the law's processes.

The latest to indicate such aspirations is Rocco Di Larmi, who, through Max Schultz, New York lawyer, sent word to United States Attorney Ralph L. Emmons that he would like to surrender April 18.

Federal Judge Frederick H. Bryant sent Di Larmi to jail for six months last summer for contempt of court. The charge arose from Di Larmi's refusal to testify against Arthur Flegenheimer, as Schultz was more properly known, at the beer baron's trial in Malone on tax evasion charges.

Di Larmi obtained his release on bond pending an appeal after serving several weeks. Judge Martin T. Masten, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, confirmed the sentence last week.

If Di Larmi surrenders, Emmons said he had an order ready for Judge Bryant to sign, sending the aratwale Schultz aide back to the Franklin county jail.

Meanwhile two others who escaped being targets for the hall of bullets that mowed down Schultz and sundry of his companions last fall, awaited word from Washington, setting the date of their arraignment as income tax evaders.

They are Frank Ahearn and Henry Margolis, who surrendered to a Deputy United States Marshal at Glens Falls in February. Through their attorney, James M. Noonan, of Albany, who used also to represent Schultz, they asked Emmons to name the date at the present court term.

Emmons relayed the request to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings in Washington. Ahearn and Margolis, after a sojourn in the Lake

George jail, now are confined in Schenectady.

HITLER'S WAR PLANS

What is Hitler driving at? He boasts of his consistent policy; and perhaps broadly, and in the long run, he is consistent. He seems to be following the program he set down in his book, "My Struggle," in which he wrote:

Only sufficient territory on this earth insures a people the freedom of existence. National Socialism must seek to remedy the disproportion between our numbers and the space on earth we occupy.

The future objective of foreign policy must be the winning of new lands in eastern Europe for the German race. Much as we recognize the necessity of a reckoning with France, it will have meaning only if it assures the security in the West for the extension of our territory in the East.
 Our solution is not in remote colonies, but in new land for colonization in Europe.

Germany will either be a world power or nothing. The oppressed minorities of our people will never be reunited with the mother country by protests, but only by the sword.

This apparently would mean absorption of the small Baltic countries, combined with a great drive eastward, possibly through Poland, to seize the rich adjacent Russian provinces. White Russia and the Ukraine. Germany is known to desire the latter particularly. Then, with an empire extending from the North and Baltic Seas to the Black Sea, with access alike to the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, Germany would be "sitting pretty" in Europe.

Hitler's seizure of the Rhineland, and his plans to fortify it, may be meant as preparation to hold France back when he starts his big push eastward. Meanwhile Russia grows more aggressive against Japan in Mongolia. Can Stalin be deliberately inviting the "inevitable" Japanese war now, before Hitler is ready for his eastward thrusts, in the hope of disposing of Japan and then returning back to meet the German attack? It is a fearsome and fascinating game to watch.

AQUARIUM FLOOD VICTIMS

A curious aftermath of the recent floods in the eastern part of the country has been disclosed by officials of the Aquarium in New York city. So much fresh water came down the Hudson river and flowed into the bay that the salt balance in the tanks was upset and 45 horseshoe crabs died. Other crabs and fish may die.

Some of the salt water used in the aquarium is brought in from far at sea and stored, but 15,000 gallons a day are taken from the harbor, filtered and used in the tanks of certain fish and crabs. These are the creatures now suffering. As soon as possible water will be brought for them from a point outside, but the situation is temporarily serious.

The bay water always becomes fresher in the spring, but not to such a degree as at present. It is said that even the incoming tide, which usually restores the balance, has no effect now. If the fresh-water entering the bay has been so hard on the aquarium fish, perhaps it has also been hard on the fish still in their native sea in New York harbor and at other river mouths along the northeast coast.

NOTOR GOVERNORS

People who have felt there was merit in the proposal to put government on all automobiles to limit their speed, but to be sure after reading some remarks on that subject in the trade journal, Automobile Topics, it would seem the highest speeds and the fastest drivers, but at what cost?

Motorists are reminded that surplus power is often a safety factor, as when it can perk a car quickly out of a perilous situation suddenly developing in traffic, or pull it out of a ditch or save it from sliding backward down a steep slope, or move a heavy load, or tow another car on a bad road. There is something to the charge, too, that arbitrary and unwise control of power would reduce all cars to the limitations of the poorest driver and the worst road, weather and traffic congestion.

Such regimentation of cars and drivers would be bitterly fought, anyway. Perhaps, after all's said, the best hope of safe driving lies in the education and control of the drivers themselves. Such effort seems somewhat more effective lately than it used to be.

PROFITABLE GRASS

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace urges farmers to shift millions of acres of commercial crop land to grass. He believes it is one way to avert the creation of an unmarket-able surplus. There is another good argument for this change, although many farmers appear not to understand it even now, after two seasons of dust storms and one season of unprecedented floods.

The second reason for planting grass is to anchor the soil. If much more of it blows away and washes away, there won't be enough land left for wheat and corn and other commercial crops. Grass and young trees planted on hillsides and other erosion-threatened areas would repay the farmer more, in the long run, than cash crops this year and next.

WHICH IS THE WEAKER SEX?

"It is a common observation that in almost every community there are more widows than widowers. This may be explained in part by the fact that widowers are more likely to marry."

"When the newspapers report a sudden death from heart disease, the deceased usually is a man. Men are the victims of gout, of cancer, inflammation and stones of the kidney more frequently than women. In 1927, at the age of ten years the average expectancy of life for males was almost four years less than females."

"Serious diseases of digestion affect men more frequently than women. Ulcers and cancers of the stomach, cancers of the lip, mouth, tonsils and intestines and hardening of the liver affect men more frequently than women. The single exception in this group is disease of the gall bladder, including inflammation, gall stones and cancer, all of which affect women and girls more than men." Formerly tight corsets were considered the cause of so much liver and gall trouble in women and there must have been some truth in it as the proportion of women to men some years ago was about four to one. The proportion now is considerably less.

Dr. Edgar V. Allen tells us in Hygiene that man is really the weaker sex after an examination of 300,000 cases of disease observed at the Mayo Clinic.

Even in infancy more male than female children die at birth or during the first year.

However it must be admitted that men work harder, smoke more, drink more alcohol and live more irregularly as regards food and rest.
 This accounts to some extent for the higher rate of sickness and death among men.

I believe however that Dr. Allen has overlooked one important point and that is that man's work takes him away from his home every day.
 He has to be quite weak and ill before he can remain at home. The result is that he is often on his feet and at work for one, two or even three days after the beginning of an illness. This means that his heart reserve and vitality which he needs so greatly to fight the ailment are being used up at his daily work and he has nothing left with which to fight the illness.

The greatest proportion of deaths in any community during the flu epidemic was among the "strong young men" who remained on their feet the first few days instead of going to bed.

Women may be just as good fighters as men when attacked by ailments, but being at home there is always the chair, couch, or bed available for "rest."

 prise, she finds herself in the house

Chapter 30
SITUATION

A FEELING of being something he might collect along with Mattie and then he came over for the moment, and then she felt she was being the little girl from the country again. She rose and began looking at the pictures, commenting on them. She was on safe ground here.

"You know an astonishing amount about art," he said. "Do you like the room?"

For a moment she was going to be courteous, then she told the truth.
 "Honestly, I don't. They're too much like putting traitors' heads on London Bridge, as they did in the old novels!"

He liked it, he laughed.
 They were on the low furry couch again. He put a casual arm about her.

"Do you know," he said, "why the room went silent when granny spoke of the benefit for the Anna Lispenard Home? It's the accolade."

Iris nodded. She didn't especially like his arm around her but she supposed there was no point to be-lying Victorian. "I'm quite crazy about you," his soft voice said suddenly;
 his mouth pressed her bare shoulder.
 "Be crazy about me too."

It was done lightly, his lips were hot on her flesh. Before she could move or speak, she felt something else flung about her shoulders.
 "Don't move," he said, pressing her gently back against the pillows, and rising. "For a moment to adjust a mirror. I want you to have this to remember your first evening in my house by."

Over her shoulders he had thrown a beautiful white long fur, gray with black rosetted markings. He held her fast, the arm that had thrown the fur over her shoulders still around her, their faces pressed together, as the mirror made the picture of his smooth light head, his smiling face, against her dark hair and startled, flushed face.

He had pushed her into a half-lying position on the couch, and half kneeling, half sat, close to her.
 She tried to move from him, but he kissed her again. "Crazy over you," he said once more. As she sprang up, scarlet, pushing the fur away, he caught her, his feet, his hands, her sparkling red frock, her bright angry eyes, seemed to fill the room.

"I thought you promised me that fur," she said with the complete lack of courtesy which was one of her weapons.

"A fur," said Allan, leapt unmoved, "not that fur."

"You shoot a snow-leopard once an age, you told me so!"

Iris had pulled it off her shoulders to hand it proudly to Georgia, but the girl's words checked her. "The usual routine," Georgia went on sharply. "The Mattie room, the present from the Lord of the Harrem, the couch."

Allan's usually slow speech hastened a little. "Georgia, you're impossible."

Georgia's face flamed. It was a shadow's face. Iris had always known she clutched Allan's arm, and did something close to shaking him.

"And you. You dare—after everything—"

A man servant stood in the doorway, quiet and incredibly decorous in the middle of these whirling passions.

"Mr. Beckley, Mrs. Morgan wants to speak to you, sir!"

WITH what Iris could not help thinking was a certain male relief at getting away from a scene, Allan spoke a word of apology and left the girls together. Iris braced herself for a continuation of the scene. But instead Georgia changed as suddenly as if someone had turned a key in her. Her face smoothed to sweetness, and she laughed easily.

"Here, put it back," she said, throwing the fur about Iris's bare shoulders again. "What a pig I was!"

"But if you are engaged to Mr.
 Beckley," said Iris, "you are right.
 He hasn't any business to give presents to other girls without your knowledge."

Georgia stared at her for a moment, then laughed again, more stirring. She kissed Iris suddenly.

 "You cunning thing!" she said. "You and I are going to be great friends."
 Iris was not a fool. She did not trust Georgia. But she had been reared to a courtesy which had at least to seem to accept such friendliness. As the girl offered, she said something, she scarcely knew what.
 One thing she did know. If Georgia had any real rights over Allan, she'd have said so. Iris pulled the fur closer.

"But what I came up to say was that most of the crowd are going."
 Georgia went smoothly on. "I suppose Mrs. Morgan sent Williams to tell Allan so, as I forgot to. But after they're gone some of us are going to drive somewhere and dance and have something to eat; we want you along. And Allan, of course."

"My aunt—" began Iris, but Georgia said, "Oh, your brother and the Silverheels girl are coming, of course. Run along down and say night-night to the old lady, and come back up here to wait."

Iris was glad to escape from Allan's room, and get away from Georgia for a little while. She ran down the narrow winding old stairs to change her dress, and her hostess and say good-by to her.

"Don't forget, I'll write your aunt," was old Mrs. Morgan's last word. She made her final farewell, and slid up the back stairs as Georgia had told her to do. Her brother and Sigrid, Dick, and a couple of men and a girl she did not know, were sitting, a bright-colored flock with black patches, all over the couch and the floor.

Presently they were all flocking out to the cars. Allan laid the snow-leopard fur about her shoulders.
 "How does it feel to have fur from the Himalayas drop down the chimney?" he said in her ear, as he put her in a low racing car.

They were the symbol of her victory over Georgia. And yet something stung her at the phrase. Someone had said that before. Suddenly she remembered. Morgan.

That first day she had met Morgan.
 And he, innocently, thinking her a girl of fifteen in her short dresses, had said, "Let me give you money for a dress, say it's dropped down the chimney." And she had been angry, been insulted.

"COMFY?" he asked her, breaking into her thoughts.
 She smiled at him brilliantly.

"Quite. Where are Owen and Sigrid?"

"Behind in the Andersons' car," he said. She was relieved to find that Georgia was not with them—nobody was in the rumble seat, indeed—and sat happily silent while the car made its clever way through a westbound street and up the west drive to Riverside. She had not, so far, been to any of the Harlem cabarets, and she thought that she would be where they were going. NO it must be Arrowhead fun—they were on Broadway, finally turning north.

"Where are we headed for?" she demanded again. "Won't it be late when we get there?"

"It will indeed," said Allan, in his amused soft voice. "We're late now.
 Does it matter?"

"Why, I suppose not—" She was being a country-mouse again. After all, there were no early engagements tomorrow. She drowsed a little. . . . They were still sliding swiftly along the silver ribbon when she awakened. "Aren't we there yet?"
 she demanded sleepily.

"Almost," said Allan. "You're a wonderful child. The only girl I ever drove with who could stop talking and enjoy all this in silence." She stared at the trees, the low hills at one side, the meadows stretching out on the other—all silvered and still and beautiful. Suddenly her dreamy delight was broken by a low, "damn" from Allan.

She knew enough about cars to know that the jar, and the grinding noise which followed it, was probably the sound of a broken differential.

He was all right in a moment.
 "Something wrong with the car,"
 he said. "It'll take us as far as the
 r. house, anyway."

That was all right, then. They would get a lift back in one of the other cars. They went carefully after that, finally landing at a queer turn-out of place, a roadhouse high up from the road.

The warmth and light of the old little place were comforting. It was the of the ornate luxury Iris expected. She supposed it was like then, for being "quaint." Allan came back from checking her wraps.
 "We might as well eat what the food is ready."

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—When 60-year-old State Senator William T. Byrne of Albany decided to "take a walk" he took a real one. He returned to his desk today after a 36-mile jaunt to his summer home at Bean Hill, Montgomery county. It took him 11 hours. When he was 10 miles from Bean Hill, he said, a woman motorist offered him a lift. He lifted his hat and replied: "Sorry madam, I do not ride with ladies who are unaccompanied." The lady was his wife.

Hundreds Flee Homes In the South as Yellow Floods Cover Lowlands

Gainesville, Ga., April 9 (AP).—Flooded southern rivers forced hundreds of lowland families from their homes today, diverting immediate attention from storm-stricken Gainesville and Tupelo, Miss., where commerce was renewed on a limited scale.

Most of the homeless were from the valleys of the Ohio, Mississippi and Tennessee rivers in Tennessee and Kentucky.

The creeping yellow flow of the Tennessee forced out 75 families at Chattanooga.

Rising rivers of North and South Carolina threatened highways and farmlands, but river towns were reported damaged but little.

At Rome, Ga., where the Coosa river overflowed at its highest level since 1916, several hundred persons were temporarily homeless.

Low-lying streets were inundated at West Point, Ga., at Princerville, S. C., and Fayetteville, N. C. At Augusta, Ga., the Savannah river caused $100,000 damage, but was receding today.

Virtually all the 201 storm dead at Tupelo had been buried, and streets were cleared sufficiently to permit a halting flow of traffic.

Here, where the storm damage centered in the business section, the shopkeepers reopened to trade in necessities.

Aided by 32 brawny mountaineers from Dahlonega, Georgia, mountain town, who came as volunteer grave-diggers, Gainesville was completing the gloomy task of burying its 183 dead.

KING EDWARD GIVES COINS AS MAUNDY THURSDAY RITE

London, April 9 (AP).—King Edward today paid out shining, specially-minted coins to 142 persons at services in Westminster Abbey commemorating the age-old ceremony of Maundy Thursday.

The ceremony was symbolic of the washing of the feet of the disciples of Jesus Christ at the last supper.

The money was doled out from special red and white purses carried on a golden salver which is among the historic relics at the tower of London.

The new monarch was the second British ruler in 200 years to take part personally in the ancient ceremony. His father, the late King George, went with Queen Mary to hand out "Maundy Pennies" at the Abbey in 1934.

In other years the Lord High Almoner, the Archbishop of Canterbury, has deputized.

Edward passed coins to 71 old men and an equal number of old women, all specially chosen for the occasion. The number of recipients traditionally corresponds to the number of years of the King's age. This year, however, by the King's special command, the number of men and women was the same as if his father had lived. The late King George would have been 71.

"Each man first received 45 shillings and each woman 35. Then the King gave to each a red purse containing £2, 10s ($12.50) and a white purse containing 71 pence of Maundy money.

Christadelphians Meet Tonight

This evening the Christadelphian Society of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church will hold its regular bi-monthly meeting in the church hall on Temperance avenue.

Preparations have been made to make this get-together a thoroughly enjoyable one for all who attend.

It was requested at the previous session that the girls be admitted to play dartsball having as their opponents, the Christadelphian boys.

Therefore, Irwin Thomas, the newly elected president, and Ben Storm, treasurer, have collaborated to assure the fair sex some games in this fast proving sport. Before the entertainment begins, the business part of the evening will take place.

Owing to choir rehearsal for Easter Sunday, the meeting will begin as soon as the stated rehearsal has expired, which will undoubtedly be about 7:45.

Numerous discussions are on the program for this meeting so the new officers are requesting that all members be present. Secretary Eleanor Burger has announced that the club may hold another

Scavenger Hunt which proved so successful last December. A vote will be taken on this question. Refreshments and dancing will conclude the evening's calendar.

Woman Farmer Works, Worries, Banks Profits

Greenville, Ga. (AP)—"A lot of hard work, a lot of planning and ever so much worrying."

That's how Edna Peavy, in two years as "head man" on a 250-acre farm, says she has managed to pay off a stack of bills and put money in the bank.

Without any training for farm work, Miss Peavy took charge of the farm in March, 1934, after her father's death. She lives there with her mother, and a hired man assists in the work.

Up At Dawn
Arising at dawn, she milks six cows before breakfast—then jumps into her automobile and is off to town to dispose of a load of milk, vegetables, butter and eggs to regular customers.

Then she hurries home to take up the managerial reins. She is a believer in diversified farming and last year had 60 acres in cultivation—40 in corn, 10 in peas, nine in cotton and one in sweet potatoes.

"I don't depend altogether on crops for a living," she explains. "Sometimes we have crop failures, or ridiculously low prices and I like to have money coming in all the time."

Money In Poultry
She keeps between 50 and 75 hens and says her eggs and surplus chickens usually bring good prices.

"In summer the gardens and the peach, apple and fig trees add to my income," she continues. "Some of the fruit and vegetables are sold to my milk and butter customers."

In support of her theories the "lady farmer" points to a bank account sufficient to finance her business through the harvest season.

PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins. Salves or cutting can't do this. An internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, a prescription of Dr. J. S. Leobardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of the congested blood and helps to heal and restore the affected parts. HEM-ROID has such a fine record of success that McEwen's Drug Store and all druggists say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must relieve your pile agony or money back—adv.

Flood Relief.

Editor Freeman.

The question of flood relief is of interest to all. To those who will attend the All-Union meeting the writer suggests that care be taken to understand that a mere appropriation is useless except to spend taxpayers' money. The all important thing to remember is that there will always be floods and some of them will be great floods.

Therefore to save time and space here the writer suggests to all taxpayer groups, board of supervisors, county attorney and county engineer as well as our Assemblyman Congress, Senator Wick and Congressman Goodwin, that before they act on any flood relief projects in Ulster or nearby, that they secure a copy of Engineering News Record of April 2 issue, and read the views of important, unbiased and non-political items prepared by outstanding engineering observers on this problem as found on pages 502, 503. Probably every engineer in the county or leader in construction field has a copy, so it would not be difficult to procure locally a copy to read. Those interested will find it written in plain understandable English. As an example I quote an excerpt: "As was to be expected many flood control bills are being introduced in Congress, most of them carrying huge appropriations. These appropriations can do no good, of course, in the absence of plans. With very few exceptions, no large rivers have been studied to see whether control of its floods is really practicable and if so, what kind of control it ought to have."

control are known to be possible—and they are almost always possible—their comparative values have not been investigated. The extent to which floodwaters can be held back in the hills, and the extent to which channels through the valley and plains need to be cleared, are vital points that must be determined before the first spade is struck into the ground. Also the divisions of benefits and costs must be appraised in order to make work possible at all. The whole matter is not as simple as the appropriations bills would suggest and no money ought to be appropriated at this time for flood control works. Instead Congress will do a truly constructive thing if it initiates full studies and surveys and lays down a policy for national and local cooperation that can be applied anywhere in the country and will be fair to all interests concerned."

The writer's only interest in bringing this matter up is solely to provide those to whom recent floods and past ones locally have brought havoc and despair to secure information they should know about on the subject and where to find it. No sane man would deny these unfortunate relief from the mental and physical terror of roaring destruction of un-harnessed floods. Only those who have seen it really understand the story. But if we, for pure political expediency and pork barrel effect, stall these folks into a temporary state of protection we cannot decline later to deny our responsibility when hell again breaks loose. Thank you.

Movies Shown at Trial In Sullivan County

During the trial term of Supreme Court in Sullivan county Justice Harry E. Schrick experienced a rather unusual procedure involving a new and modern type of evidence. Motion pictures.

It was during the trial of an action brought to recover on insurance policies. Herman Mintz, a butcher, sued to recover under five accident policies. He alleged that he had been permanently injured when he broke both legs and that under the terms of his policies he was permanently disabled from pursuing his usual occupation. The defendant, Equity Society, denied that his injuries were permanent and sued under a counter claim to recover monies paid and also for the payment of premiums which had been waived during the time he was alleged to have been unable to do his customary work.

After the injuries the insurance companies paid under the disability clause of his policies the plaintiff further payment of premiums during disability. The plaintiff claimed that he had been permanently disabled and since his injuries, his leg had failed to properly heal and that he was prevented from pursuing his usual duties. For a time payments were made but apparently the insurance company took steps to ascertain whether there was total disability for it appeared from the evidence that at some time after the accident employees of the insurance company went to the neighborhood of the Mintz shop and there took motion pictures of Mr. Mintz at work on the premises. It was these pictures which the insurance company asked leave to show.

Since the law is very meager on the matter of motion pictures as evidence Justice Schrick was at a loss to determine just what this type of technical evidence might bring to light. The showing of the pictures was objected to by the plaintiff's counsel, Ellsworth Baker. But after considerable argument Justice Schrick solved the problem by calling an expert and requesting that a "pre-showing" be given the court with the jury excluded. One showing was made for the benefit of the court and then counsel objected on the grounds that the pictures might not be projected with the same speed at which they had been taken and this might tend to show Mr. Mintz walking rapidly about the scene, while in fact he might have been moving very slowly and with difficulty. This matter was finally solved when the expert testified that the pictures were being shown at the same speed as that used in the taking and that the actions of the plaintiff were not distorted in any manner. A second showing to the court at the same speed was made and then the jury was admitted and the film shown.

The film showed Mr. Mintz engaged in work about the place and in receiving a load of chickens but the film showed him taking but little part in the actual work as compared to the other people shown in the scene. This evidently convinced the jury that his accident had disabled him to an extent that he was unable to be as active as he had been in the past for a verdict for the plaintiff against the company was returned. The company was represented by Mr. Birmingham.

The court submitted two questions to the jury, one whether Mr. Mintz was permanently disabled so as to prevent his taking his usual part in his business and whether the company was liable for payment of monies as prescribed in the policies and the jury answered that he had so been disabled and that the company should make payment. The counter claim by the company to recover payments made and for the waived premiums was dismissed.

This is the first time that Justice Schrick has had the enlightenment of the movies to assist in the decision of a lawsuit. The idea apparently is a rather new one since there appears to be no decisions by the higher courts as to the admission of this type of evidence.

Shearing Schools Offered Sheepmen

Ithaca, N. Y., April 9.—Spring is perhaps the busiest season of the year for sheep raisers, according to H. A. Willman of the New York State College of Agriculture, who says a large part of the work comes within a very few weeks.

Since wool represents an important yearly dividend from the farm flock, he points out that shearing, as an important part of sheep raising and marketing, should be done right. Shearing will be featured at a series of all-day meetings planned for the week of April 6 in various parts of the state. E. S. Bartlett of Chicago, an expert on shearing, will give special training to every sheepman who attends one of the following meetings:

April 7, Iroquois farms in Cooperstown; April 8, the farm of Harry Howard in Watkins Glen; April 9, Harold Hillecker in Perry; April 10, R. W. Beecher, Livonia; and April 11, DeLoes Stout, Fillmore.

Sheep and wool judging, drenching, and subjects of general interest to all sheepmen will be discussed at these meetings. Contests to determine the best shearers in the counties are also on the program, and county winners will be eligible to take part in a state contest later in the year. The meetings are both for adults and 4-H Club members who are interested.

Is searching for gifts to bring to me;
I'll not ask for wealth or fleeting fame,
Not love, or success to win the game,

But this one thing, I do implore,
If you can, bring me health.
Without health I cannot play,
Without health I cannot work,
Without health I cannot see my

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

Charles D. Hilles

(By The Associated Press)

Political periscopes have been trained for many years on quiet Charles D. Hilles, national Republican committeeman from New York.

This year he may be more of a storm center than ever. Younger Republicans in his own state, led by Representative Hamilton Fish, are pointing out that, despite Hilles, the state has a Democratic governor and two Democratic senators.

From Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, come demands for "liberalizing" the party, and by that Borah means, first, the sending of instructed state delegations to the party's convention at Cleveland.

New York's delegation, led by Hilles, is traditionally uninstructed. The tug-of-war over Republican policies, if it occurs at Cleveland, is expected to see Hilles' troops on one side and Borah's on the other. (Tomorrow—James A. Farley)

FINDS LEPROSY IS NOT CONTAGIOUSBacteriologist Bases His Conclusions on New Tests.

Berkeley, Calif.—Efforts to keep alive the causative organism of leprosy have virtually established the fact that the disease is not contagious.

That is the conclusion of Dr. A. J. Salie, assistant professor of bacteriology at the University of California. Taking as a basis for his work clinical tests that had been made at the Kauli Leprosy hospital, on the outskirts of Honolulu, Doctor Salie successfully checked them for six months at the federal leprosarium at Carville, La.

The original experiments at the Honolulu institute were directed toward keeping alive the causative organism of leprosy for a sufficiently long period to study its development and possibilities of treatment. Along these lines considerable progress has been made.

It was these experiments that Doctor Salie rechecked at Carville, La. Bacteria taken from eleven subjects not only produced the same results in each case, but identical results with those obtained at Honolulu.

The organisms removed from living subjects by Doctor Salie were placed in embryonic chicken tissue culture. These embryos were drawn from fertile eggs, prepared by mincing and converted into a culture in biological fluids.

The leprosy organisms were placed in this culture and have survived there, thus giving opportunity for definite identification and the possible development of a curative agent.

Efforts to inoculate leprosy germs in human beings and animals by the usual means for the most part have been unsuccessful. It is this fact that has established the conclusion that the disease probably is not contagious.

While medication in leprosy has been widely different and generally discouraging, it is believed that as a result of the present experiments in keeping the organism alive under laboratory conditions progress can now be made in the curative field.

Texas Ranchers Using

Wild Hogs as Watchdogs

Fort Worth, Tex.—Javelinas, speedy members of the hog tribe that for centuries have been hunted for sport and thrills, have come into their own not as subjects for the lance of a mounted huntsman but as "watchdogs."

Ranchers in the Bracada, wild, brushy country between the Nueces and the Rio Grande, have found a use for these vicious saber-toothed wild hogs that roam the area.

M. B. Burks, who recently brought several carloads of hogs into the Fort Worth market, says the javelinas are not, as popularly supposed, vicious to those whom they know.

"Catch them while they're pigs and keep them around the ranch house and they'll become as attached to any family as a watchdog," he explains. "The trouble is they're too good as watchdogs. They're faithful to their masters but will charge a stranger without warning and without provocation. Those grinding teeth and two inch tusks are mighty dangerous."

The javelina does not sound a warning as it charges. There is no grunt or bark to warn the uninitiated stranger. A sudden rush, accompanied by the fearful grinding of teeth, and before a man can sidestep or jump to safety his leg is ripped from ankle to knee by needle-like tusks. Even the heaviest boots are not proof against the knife-like thrust of the javelina's tusks.

Calculating Machines

Take Astronomers' Jobs

London.—London girls are playing a part in steering ships and planes through the seas and skies. Calculating machines worked by girls have to a large extent supplanted astronomers and mathematicians in making the calculations and computations for the 1936 "Nautical Almanac."

The almanac, produced by the British admiralty, contains "information regarding places of the sun, moon, planets and stars, and other particulars required in the navigation of ships," and all the world relies on it for navigation on the sea and in the air.

In former years the staff which produced the almanac consisted half of astronomers and half of mathematicians. Now it consists of one-third astronomers and the rest calculating machine girls.

Violin Prize Spurns

Winner to Emulation

Westfield, Mass.—More than a half century ago Horace Ripley won a violin in a lottery. The following year he won another.

"That second fiddle was a pretty good one, and the more I looked at it the more I thought I'd use it. I could make one like it," he said. Ripley carved out a violin with his jack knife. Then another, 70 days at eighty-five years of age, he estimates he has made 25 to 30 violins, several others and two guitars—all by hand.

Pert mannish suit of flannel retains femininity.
Liana Merwin

Gray being the color of the hour—and a color so well suited to youth and clear complexions, there is little wonder that designers of juniors' clothes have chosen it for so many of their new numbers.

The paradox of being feminine and yet mannishly tailored is very necessary.

any test we tend too much on the mannish side. With the vogue for men's wear suitings so strong and all the tailored details done in a man's way—it is obvious that puckered shoulders, frilly skirts, pert peplums and soft relief in accessories offer a way out.

The three-piece suit for the junior miss sketched above is an example of tailored smartness with femininity not completely overshadowed. Fastened of gray men's wear flannel, the coat has full, puckered shoulders, and nips in youthfully at the waist to create a flare peplum at back. It fastens uniquely with a self tab and buckle in front. The skirt is plainly tailored with roomy kick pleat and slide fasten closing.

White organdie is used for the frilly blouse with its twin ruffled front and pearl button trim. With a change of smart blouses or gilets in either tailored or frilly styles, this outfit is most practical.

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP)—"Hell's Half Acre," considered by police authorities to be a spawning place for petty crime, has been re-christened by women of the Wesley community center as "Sunshine Acre."

The women worked in homes with scrub brushes and brooms, on vacant lots with rakes and hoes and planted rose bushes in sidewalk park lanes.

New Forests Prevent Little Falls Flood

While many sections of the country are digging out from tons of sediment left by floods a striking example of flood control and the restoration to normal stream flow reforestation is worth noting.

Professor Ray F. Bower of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, N. Y., recently returned from an inspection trip of a reforested area started by Little Falls, N. Y., on the city watershed twenty years ago. When this project began all of the water from Beaver Creek and Spruce Creek was required to supply the city. Today Beaver Creek alone provides sufficient water for the normal needs of the city and for emergency. This change in the character of Beaver Creek, according to Professor Bower, is the direct result of reforestation.

Ralph D. Austin, city engineer of Little Falls, concurs in this statement and adds: "I have been connected with the Public Works Department since 1914, which was two years before the beginning of the reforestation of the Beaver Creek area from which 98 per cent of our water supply is taken, and I have seen the gradual transformation of this land from cultivated farm land with its individual woodlots to practically a complete forest cover, and our experience has been that as this reforestation program has progressed and the earlier plantings have attained a reasonable growth that the daily run-off from this area has become more constant."

"Also, in the spring, it has been observed that snow remains in the forest for a period of from ten days to two weeks longer than it does where there is no forest cover. In other words, the protection afforded by the trees from the direct rays of the sun allows the snow to melt more gradually and for the excess water to be absorbed into the ground instead of the rapid run-off into the streams draining this area."

"On the other hand during the extremely dry season of 1930, which followed two years of less than normal precipitation, our supply of water was in no way interrupted and it was unnecessary to adopt any unusual regulations governing the consumer's use of water. Several nearby communities, however, were placed in a serious predicament and were forced to enact drastic restrictions in the use of the limited water available."

"To my mind this clearly demonstrates the wisdom of reforestation as a protection against flood conditions."

Professor Bower stated that under conditions, which prevailed this fall, this land, which is rugged and steep in many places, might have suffered considerable erosion during the heavy rains and that undoubtedly flood conditions would have occurred in Beaver Creek if the land had not been protected by the coniferous tree plantations.

This year the planting on Beaver Creek watershed will be completed. Forty WPA men have been doing pruning, thinning and cutting on this forest. At the same time they have cleaned the brush from the firelines and kept the plantations in excellent condition. This forest was financed by a bond issue and the revenues obtained from the area have been sufficient to pay off all the indebtedness and to accumulate a small surplus. The watershed is reforested, the stream has returned to its primeval condition and the project shows a profit.

Events Around The Empire State

Massena, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Two men bear the brunt of the still nebulous married men's movement for federal support of large families.

Formosa Degree, 42, sign painter and father of five, started it.

Then Adrian J. Gregor, tailor, who is interested although his family has grown up, joined and Degree named him secretary. Gregor estimates that it would cost the government $2,000,000,000 a year to pay the suggested bonus of $50 a year for the first two children born in a family and $100 annually for each additional youngster.

But he maintains that it would be "an investment in better citizens." Before Degree and Gregor go any farther with their plan, however, they will seek the opinion of a committee of business men as to its practicability.

BONES IN CAVE HELD CLUE TO LOST TEXAS OFFICERS.

San Angelo, Texas (AP)—The reported discovery of 15 skeletons in a cavern, west of Marston, Tex., may unveil the mysterious disappearance many years ago of a group of officers on a search for outlaws.

Chester Hunter and Hubert Williams made the discovery while exploring the cavern on a ranch. They brought back two skulls.

They reported the cave was reached from a flat rock on which was dimly carved, "B. E. Garrett, 1883." Within was found also a hair larva and a piece of an old-fashioned lantern.

TWO MAYORS FUNCTION IN SINGLE TEXAS TOWN

Cuero, Tex. (AP)—This south Texas town has two mayors serving official terms.

Here's how it happens: Mayor J. Terry Neuman is the duly elected mayor and Z. W. Fowler is mayor of Dickens, Tex., and serving in that capacity although he is a bona fide resident here.

Fowler recently was transferred here from Dickens but is carrying out his official duties through the mails and commuting.

The coincidence does not end there. Both mayors are connected with lumber companies.

MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, April 8.—The first meeting of the Mt. Marion Home Bureau will be held on Wednesday, April 8, at the home of Mrs. Harvey Hoffman.

The Rev. Harold Hoffman of New Brunswick was the week-end guest of his brother, the Rev. Harvey Hoffman, and Mrs. Hoffman.

Mrs. Albert Felton has returned to her home in Ruby after staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young. Mrs. Felton was recovering from a mastoid operation.

There will be joint communion services of the Mt. Marion and High Woods churches at High Woods on Good Friday evening.

The regular meeting of the Mt. Marion P. T. A. has been postponed until April 21, on account of the Easter holiday. This month will be children's month and many plans are under way to make it a delightful program for both parents and children.

Those attending the Study Group conducted by Dr. May Peabody on Friday were: Mrs. Harvey Hoffman, Mrs. William Myer, Mrs. George Gillison, Mrs. Abram Bogert.

The next meeting of the Study Group will be held on Thursday, April 16.

Mrs. and Mrs. George Sanford of Pine Plains attended church here Sunday and visited in this community.

The double male quartet of Hope College, Holland, Mich., sang in the Mt. Marion Church on Palm Sunday when both High Woods and Mt. Marion met in joint services.

The singing and the music was beautifully rendered and deeply enjoyed by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sinker and nephew, Arthur McDevitt, and friend of Brooklyn are at their summer home for the Easter vacation.

China's Northward Trek Shrinks

Shanghai, China (AP)—The exodus of Chinese into Manchuria has been sharply reduced by immigration restrictions imposed by the Manchoukuo government. Only 3,400 passed the frontier here in January, as compared with 22,000 for the corresponding month last year. Most of the emigrants were laborers.

Bert Knauth Spoke To Boys' Hi-Y Club

Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., Bert Knauth, manager of the Kingston Flying Service, spoke to the Boys' Hi-Y Club at their regular weekly meeting.

Mr. Knauth spoke about aviation in general to the members of the club, telling very interestingly to the members different details of flying. He told in particular how the radio beam operated and in talking about the recent wreck of the Transcontinental and Western Air liner in Pennsylvania, he gave his version as to what was the cause of the accident. Following his talk a large number of the boys gathered around him and asked him a large variety of questions concerning aviation.

Preceding the talk by Mr. Knauth, the club held their regular business meeting which was presided over by Bill Locke, president of the club. Devotions for the meeting were in charge of Nelson H. Fuller. At the meeting president Locke announced that plans for the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi dance were proceeding very well. The dance will be held next Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. The president also appointed a nominating committee to name candidates for next year's officers. This committee is composed of Art Morrill, Pete Weiss and Phil Gilles.

High School News

Senior Motto Chosen.

Tuesday morning a meeting of the Senior Class was called to choose the class colors, banner, and motto. Various combinations of colors, a number of banners, and several mottos had been exhibited in the front corridor for the past few weeks. The combination cardinal and gray was unanimously chosen as the class colors. "Carpe diem"—seize the opportunity—was chosen as the class motto and a banner designed by a member of the art department. Principal Dumm and Miss Tarrant then spoke to the class concerning the wise selection of the class day speakers, the election of which will take place soon after the students return from the spring vacation.

Student P. T. A. Program.

Parents of high school students are invited to attend the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, which was to be held April 28, but has been changed to May 5. The program will be in the form of a model assembly, in an effort to demonstrate to the parents the type of program presented in assembly on Thursday and Friday of each week. The High School orchestra will play under the direction of Mr. Stine, and the combined choral and glee clubs will sing three numbers, "Prayer," by Beethoven, Chorale from St. Matthew Passion, by Bach, and Hall's arrangement of the well known negro spiritual "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." Presidents of prominent school organizations will tell of the work their organizations are doing and a play will be given under the direction of Miss Tarrant.

Prisma Spellers Spelling Bee. The first eliminations in the spelling contest Prisma is sponsoring ended Wednesday. The second eliminations will be held May 7 and the date of the third will be announced later. Fifteen dollars in prizes are to be awarded the winners of the third eliminations. In order to insure complete exclusion of daylight when slides, motion pictures or plays are presented in the daytime, Prisma has ordered duplex shades for the high school auditorium.

Tri-Hi-Y Easter Dance. There will be dancing to Bob Seawind's new and popular orchestra at the spring leap year dance to be held at the Y. W. C. A., April 14, by the combined Tri-Hi and Hi-Y Clubs. Dorothy Greene, Helen Ross, Mary O'Connor, Bill Locke, Conrad Kantzler, and John Decker are on the committee. The ticket committee is composed of Dorothy Greene, Helen Ross, Bill Locke. This will be a girl bid dance.

Theatre passes were awarded to Mildred Ludwig, Barbara Vogel, Rodney Terminello, Arthur Morrill, John Decker. Arthur Morrill won a theatre pass for the second time. Five words in the advertisement were misspelled.

STORE CLERK RECOGNIZES STOLEN DRESS: CALLS COP

Augusta, Ga. (AP)—Helen Snellgrove, department store clerk, looked up to inquire what a customer would like.

The customer was a stranger but her dress was familiar to Miss Snellgrove.

So she summoned a policeman and charged the customer with theft the night before of two dresses from the Snellgrove residence.

COCONUT TREE CLIMBING RESERVED FOR NATIVES

Honolulu (AP)—Tourist tales notwithstanding, the Honolulu police department is determined to discourage visitors from climbing coconut trees on public thoroughfares.

Two recent visitors were so informed when an officer interrupted their assault on a pair of palms near a downtown office building. Residents say only Hawaiian boys can climb the slippery trees, anyway.

TEXAS WILL HONOR "J. K." IF THEY LEARN HIS NAME

Fort Worth Texas (AP)—Texas is trying to identify "J. K." initials of the man believed to have written the state's first folk song.

"J. K.'s" memory will be posthumously honored if he can be identified, says Mrs. Will Lake, who is directing the search for the author of "The Yellow Rose of Texas." The song was published in 1855, and dedicated by "J. K." to Charles H. Brown, once the operator of a music store on Main street, Jackson, Tenn. It was a Civil War hit, and is being revived for the Texas centennial.

Beryl Bicks Freed, Larceny Charges Are Dismissed in Court

Was One Of Two Men Arrested In Connection With Bond Transaction In City—Henry Kingsburg And His Mother Robbed Of Bonds Valued At Over $50,000 In January—Other Man's Hearing Adjourned.

With the consent of the district attorney's office both charges of grand larceny in the first degree lodged against Beryl Bicks, 42, a drug salesman of New York city, were dismissed this morning in police court by Judge Culliton and bail in the sum of $4,000 cash was cancelled and will be returned to Bicks. Attorney Chris J. Flanagan appeared for Mr. Bicks in court today.

The arrest of Mr. Bicks was an outgrowth of the swindling of Henry Kingsburg and his mother, Mrs. Ray Kingsburg, of bonds and securities valued at over $50,000 on January 23, of this year.

One other man has also been arrested so far in the case. He is Willard A. Troelsen, also of New York city, and his hearing was adjourned this morning to April 23. He also furnished bail for his appearance in court at that time.

From the story as told, the Kingsburgs were visited by a man who represented himself as a purchaser of the bonds the Kingsburgs owned and he offered them what they considered an excellent price for the bonds. Accepting the offer they sent the bonds on to New York city, and received several telephone messages that the check covering the transaction was in the mail and should reach them shortly.

From what the police learned the bonds were delivered in New York city and were sold for approximately $23,000 but the Kingsburgs never received a cent of the money obtained for the bonds.

The charges against Mr. Bicks were dismissed when investigation disclosed that he was not a member of the gang that swindled the Kingsburgs out of their life savings.

Home of Baltimore's Mayor Was Bombed

Baltimore, April 9 (AP)—The home of Mayor Howard W. Jackson was bombed early today in what was believed to have been a direct attempt on the mayor's life.

The explosive, which police said was apparently thrown from a passing automobile landed on the ground about ten feet from the house. Mayor Jackson was sitting in bed reading when the blast broke out ceiling windows and filled his room with cloud fumes.

A police guard was thrown about the home immediately, and officers were assigned to patrol the nearby streets. Neither Mayor Jackson nor his family could give any reason for the act.

Had the bomb been thrown directly at the house, it would have gone through a big window directly below the mayor's bedroom. Had it hit the bedroom the executive said it could have been left to the imagination.

At the time of the time were Mrs. Jackson, a daughter, Virginia, William Jackson, his grandson, and two servants.

Neighbors for blocks around the Jackson home were roused from bed by the explosion.

April 9 "Perfect Square"
Edmonton, Alta., April 9 (AP)—Today, April 9, is a day of importance to persons with a mathematical mind because it is a date with a "perfect square." George W. Robertson of the University of Alberta reported. Robertson submitted the following: 1936 is 44 squared; nine is three squared; April is the fourth month, which is two squared; April 9 is the 100th day of the year, which is 10 squared. This combination will not occur again for 180 years, Robertson reported. The next time will be on April 9, 2116.

Renowned April 9 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, free under $10,000 cash bail, today a New York authorities sought his extradition as a suspect in a $12,000 jewel robbery. Porter, a 30-year-old as a suspect in the shooting of Alfred (Gabe) Linkle, Chicago newspaper reporter, was arrested yesterday after police surrounded his house here and ordered him by telephone to "switch on all the lights and come out with your hands up."

Gold Withdrawals Reported in France

Paris, April 9 (AP)—The Bank of France statement today disclosed withdrawals of gold worth 1,670,000,000 francs ($110,220,000) during the week ending April 3.

This huge withdrawal followed a loss of 114,000,000 francs ($7,524,000) in gold during the previous week at the time of the war scare when France was insisting that Reichsfuehrer Hitler withdraw his troops from the Rhineland.

The bank raised its discount rate to 6 per cent from 3 1/2 per cent on March 29, indicating that the withdrawals of gold were reaching the stage which was dangerous to the backing on French bank notes.

Financial authorities said that the losses consequently subsided and that they believed they were halted. The gold reserve dropped in two weeks from 65,700,000,000 to 63,917,000,000 francs ($4,136,200,000 to $4,318,552,000). The coverage on sight obligations dropped from 70.2 per cent to 67.42 per cent.

Ship's Master Reports Radical Spy System Working on His Ship

New York, April 9 (AP)—Captain Gregory Cullen, master of the Dollar Liner President Garfield, was in port today with a story of trouble with members of the crew and "a radical spy system, a veritable Russian check," which he said held away on his ship.

Cullen said he refused to bring two members of the "black gang" or engine room crew, any further than Genoa on the ship's round-the-world cruise and left another man behind for insubordination. A fourth member of the crew, he said, was put ashore in Italy to protect him from radical enemies aboard the ship.

New York officials of the line had no comment concerning Cullen's statement. Passengers said there had been no disorder on the voyage, but some expressed indignation at the strike of stewards at Genoa after Cullen placed two firemen in the brig.

Cullen said that when he locked up the two firemen following attacks on fellow crew members the entire ship's crew except 44 Chinese in the steward department, walked off the ship.

Ninety per cent of the crew, he said, "went off because they were terrorized by the radical spy system, a veritable Russian check, which holds away on my ship and functions so efficiently that two of the loudest demonstrators were the two men who had been so badly beaten up."

When the American consul told him he could not legally detain the two men while in port, Cullen said he left them to wait in Genoa on pay for another ship.

RAID ON NEW YORK CLUBS ENDS WHITE SLAVE RING.

New York, April 9 (AP)—Raids on political clubs have broken up one of the most vicious white slave rings in New York, police officials claimed today, if the story of a woman complainant is true.

At least 600 women were caught by the syndicate in the last few years, the unidentified informant reported to Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine. Some of the victims, she said, were of well-to-do families and many of them were married.

First of the raids was March 1 on a political club in the Bronx, where 16 persons were arrested. Other clubs were raided subsequently.

There's a touch of sky and country—a hint of racing patter and the throb of a motor on the open road—in these new Saxon-weave Sports Suits. The one illustrated above is an example of the interesting treatments you will see when you drop in to look them over. The Wearlong Worsted fabrics are exceptionally rich and Scotch looking. You'll like them.

so no one thought about the furnace . . .

SPRING has its joys and its advantages, but they are little appreciated when there's a furnace fire to be built. That's the troublesome part of an old-fashioned heating plant, the ups and downs of between-season heating, when there is either too much fire or not enough.

There is an answer to this troublesome condition—a very practical one. It is the new, simple, attachable gas burner, designed especially for doing the heating job in the changeable Spring and Fall seasons. It is low in first cost and low in operating cost. Because it is on only as long as it is actually needed, it may actually cost no more to use than old-fashioned fuels are now costing.

No changes in the furnace are necessary to use this new Firedor burner. On this account we can offer its use on a liberal trial plan. May we tell you more about it?

THIS simple burner fits on the outside of your furnace in place of the regular staking door. It may be removed at any time in a few minutes for return to other fuels if you wish. Yet it will do a complete automatic heating job during Spring and Fall months.

'Eleanors' Share Limelight, One Lives in White House

Mrs. Eleanor Kirk, Pittsburgh housewife, compares her resemblance to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt with the aid of a photograph of the first lady, and a mirror.

Pittsburgh (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Kirk knows what it is to be a personage, thanks to her resemblance to another "Eleanor".

She resembles Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt so much that long lines of people sometimes follow her when she ventures downtown.

Mrs. Kirk, 52, and mother of three children, is frequently mistaken for the President's wife. She becomes a center of attention in department store throngs. Autograph hunters besiege her.

Recently, in the Chicago union station she was surrounded by members of a basketball team, just arrived. They thought she was the "first lady", and wanted her signature.

Some could hardly believe they had made a mistake.

On the train, a porter commented: "Well, I am in luck again. Smilingly, Mrs. Kirk queried: 'And why are you in luck again?'"

"It was last December, Mrs. Roosevelt," replied the porter, "that I worked on the train taking you on a trip. After that I was lucky."

Mrs. Kirk, wife of Charles L. Kirk, of Pittsburgh, is a native of Milwaukee, Wis. She says her father, Adolph Salzman, was active in Grover Cleveland's presidential campaign and that her family always has been Democratic.

She is a great admirer of Mrs. Roosevelt.

If she had time, Mrs. Kirk says she would try to achieve her ambition of becoming active in politics, but her children, three boys and a girl, occupy all her attention.

Engineer's Wife Held In Plot to Wreck Train

Pensacola, Fla., April 9 (AP)—The arrest of four persons during investigation of the strange story of a plot to wreck a loaded passenger train to kill the engineer, R. W. Vann, 70, brought the railroad hurrying today to the defense of his wife, one of those held.

"My wife is innocent," asserted Vann.

Sheriff H. E. Gandy, however, said he held the sworn statements of two negroes that Mrs. Vann planned the train wreck to obtain $2,000 life insurance and freedom to marry a younger man.

Sheriff Gandy said there were 25 passengers and a crew of eight on Vann's Louisville and Nashville Railroad train when the attempt was made to wreck it.

The plot failed, Gandy asserted, because spikes were removed from the inside rail at a curve and the train was supported by the undisturbed outer rail, where most of the weight rested.

The negroes were held with Mrs. Vann and a man listed as Earl Travis of Castleberry, Ala., on charges of conspiracy to commit a felony.

County Solicitor Richard Merritt said more serious charges were being prepared.

Gandy linked Travis, a carpenter, with Mrs. Vann as her intended husband.

In their statements the negroes were quoted as saying they twice had loosened the rails.

The engineer reported to the sheriff's office when his locomotive careened wildly because of a buckling rail. Investigating officers found a truck belonging to Vann abandoned near the curve at Cantonment, Fla.

A shoe found in the vicinity led to the arrest of the negroes, Allen Langston, 70, and Allen Flater, 16.

Langston, a fortune-teller, was quoted as saying Mrs. Vann had offered him $500 to wreck the train and another $500 "for a good job."

He was said to have told officers Mrs. Vann authorized him to hire Flater to help him and permitted the negroes to use the truck.

Mrs. Vann said the truck had been driven away from her home by two strange negroes.

Stang Says Prosperity Was "Just Around the Corner" in Fall of 1932

The Kingston Women's Republican Club held an interesting session at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday night, the president Mrs. Harry B. Walker, presiding.

At the conclusion of the business meeting Mrs. Walker presented Frederick H. Stang, who has just been elected president of the consolidated Ulster County Young Republican Clubs.

Mrs. Stang gave an excellent talk, briefly reviewing events of the past three years, denouncing what he alleged was a failure to live up to pre-election promises on the part of the Democratic administration at Washington and paying his compliments to the untiring and experienced young men, the "brain trusters" and others, who have been given unlimited power to spend the people's money and whom he divided into two groups, the one idea fellows who could see nothing but their pet scheme and another group interested solely in what they could get out of it.

The speaker referred to the well known remark that "prosperity is just around the corner," saying that this statement, made in July, 1932, while President Hoover was still in office and which was turned against him and made part of the far-fetched "Smear Hoover" campaign has since that time been accepted as true by economists, who, he said, have agreed that world conditions were on the up-grade at that very time. He laid the blame for failure of the United States to profit by this condition and carry the improvement further, on the misgovernment of the Democratic administration.

In conclusion he asked the women to do all in their power to spread Republican gospel and bring back to the country a sane and efficient administration. He held that this could be done and predicted a Republican victory in 1936, with the people taking as their battle cry the words of the well known old hymn "Faith of Our Fathers."

TEXAS "FAMILY" INCLUDES ANIMALS AND MACHINERY

WPA Orders 2,250 Cut in Its Force

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP) — The update works progress administration advanced a step toward its goal of eventual liquidation today by ordering a cut of 2,250 in the working force.

Administrator Lester W. Horrox directed that the payroll be reduced from 123,500 to 121,250 by April 15 and declared it was part of the general policy to cut down WPA enrollment each month "looking toward the ultimate end of the program."

"We don't expect we will have to discharge anybody," he explained. "We believe the reduction will be taken care of in the normal employment turnover. I see no reason for any drastic action anywhere up state."

While he reiterated that the WPA has no intention of compelling workers to accept private employment, Horrox said that "if a farm laborer is offered a farm labor job and it is at going wages, he must accept, even if the prevailing wage rate is less than the WPA is paying."

"The WPA will not be used to reduce wages anywhere, any time," he continued.

Private employment offered to WPA workers must be at prevailing or going wages. "No contractor or employer can expect to force us to discharge any employe for refusing to accept a job below the rate prevailing."

There are 2,000 prisoners in the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing.

For every dollar paid out in taxes in Chicago in 1934 32.4 cents was spent for education.

WHERE AIRLINER CRASHED CARRYING 11 TO DEATH

This striking picture shows the path cut by the T. W. A. airliner as it crashed on Chestnut Ridge, near Uniontown, Pa., killing 11. The wreck was strewn over a wide area. (Associated Press Photo.)

Sentence Reduced Due to Illness

William H. Seals, who was convicted in county court of impairing the morals of a minor child and sentenced to 9 months in the county jail, had that sentence reduced today by County Judge Frederick G. Traver, who reduced the sentence to 194 days which was the number of days Seals had served when he was taken seriously ill and removed to the hospital.

Seals is a negro who was charged with having mistreated a young girl, a relative, at the former Fisher Hotel property on East Strand several months ago. The case was tried in county court last fall and resulted in a conviction. Seals, an elderly man, was later taken ill and removed to a hospital and the reduction of sentence today was made due to his critical condition.

In Police Court.

Edward Speath, 29, a negro of East Kingston, was fined $5 for public intoxication this morning in police court. Sage Dugan, 32, of Olean, arrested for public intoxication, was given a suspended sentence.

DEAD REMOVED FROM LUXURY LINER

Fire At Chittendale
Highland, April 9—The fire alarm sounded about 3:30 o'clock Wednesday morning when the barns and outbuildings on the Miles Elmendorf farm at Chittendale were discovered to be on fire. Five men went out on the truck and others in their own cars. There were no stock kept in the buildings but Walter Elmendorf lost his automobile. The high wind at the time was a cause of alarm. The house of the Highland company was run in a nearby stream but lacked a few inches of being taken enough to be used.

The mechanical boy invites all to read his words of wisdom in his book of facts about beverage alcohol. He advises total abstinence. "Daniel" will appear in various places about the city. He is now meeting many men, women and children in the store window of the Canfield Supply Company, on the apt in the buildings but Walter Elmendorf lost his automobile. The high wind at the time was a cause of alarm. The house of the Highland company was run in a nearby stream but lacked a few inches of being taken enough to be used.

Proclamation Issued For Good Friday

CITY OF KINGSTON
New York
Conrad J. Heiselman
Mayor

April 8, 1936

PROCLAMATION

Good Friday symbolizes the saddest and most tragic event in history. It is the anniversary of the day on which God gave His Son, Jesus of Nazareth, in sacrifice on the Cross that the souls of men might be saved. To millions of our people that Cross is the promise of eternal life.

As citizens, regardless of our religious tenets, we do well to pause on this Holy Day to pay homage to the goodness and love of God. I ask that on Friday afternoon, between noon and three o'clock, the hours of the Crucifixion, that we give acknowledgment, in humility and prayer, to the Power of the Sacrificial Love manifested upon Calvary.

CONRAD J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

Two Undefended Actions Disposed Of in County Court

Two undefended actions were disposed of in county court this morning before a jury. Abram Feinberg brought an action against Samuel Weisberg to recover $200, a balance due on the sale of 370 ducks at 10 cents each. Peter Harp appeared for the plaintiff and the jury returned a verdict for $200 for plaintiff. A second action was on brought by Elmer Speedling against Charles Weisberg, a negligence action to recover for personal injuries. Michael Narro appeared for plaintiff and a verdict of $425 was returned for plaintiff.

A jury was then selected in an action brought by William A. Huppenbauer against Arthur S. Reynolds, an appeal by defendant from a decision in city court. The jury was sworn and Mr. Huppenbauer was sworn in. He testified that his car proceeding on Fair street northward toward North Front street had been struck at the corner of Fair and Front street on September 23, 1935, and damaged. He charged that Mr. Reynolds' car and his own collided, the front ends coming into contact. He claimed he had seen the Reynolds car before he entered the intersection and endeavored to stop his car when he saw the Reynolds car was not going to stop. The contention is that Fair street was crossed by traffic entering from the street to stop. Huppenbauer testified he was about 15 feet from the intersection when he saw the Reynolds car approach and elated the distance of the Reynolds car was about the same. His own speed he placed at 20 to 25 miles an hour and the Reynolds car, he said, was traveling approximately the same rate. Asked by defendant's counsel, William A. Earl, if he, Huppenbauer, had signed a statement after the accident the witness replied: "Yes, for the insurance company."

Mr. Earl immediately moved for a judgment and the withdrawal of a jury because of the mention of a statement signed by the plaintiff. Judge Traver stated that the law was very strict on that point and he would be compelled to grant the motion, declare a mistrial and directed the jury to be withdrawn, and the case over until the June term. A. Augustus Shufeldt appeared for plaintiff.

There being no other business, the court recessed until 10 o'clock Friday morning, at which time the jury will return.

Visiting cards were introduced in his country by French royalists who settled on Sapelo Island to escape the French revolution.

DIETING TO REDUCE Dangerous Fat

Out out fat means you don't need more fat. Not sensibly of lamb, lean beef, fish and fowl. To light on butter, cream and sugar. Eat fruit and vegetables in plenty. Gain in physical charm—look younger. Maryland lady writes: "I've lost 25 lbs. in 10 weeks and am so happy to get rid of that bulky fat. My skin is clearer and I feel so much better." Mrs. N. & C. Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. Kruschen costs but a trifle and is sold in a world over—try one jar—if it doesn't satisfy—money back—Get That Golden Feeling—Adv.

Krumville, April 9.—A surprise shower was given for Miss Ruth Jeanette Donohue, in honor of her coming marriage to Fred Weeks, Jr. of Ashokan, by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Clifford Donohue, at her home, 184 Lucas avenue, Kingston, on Friday evening. There were 40 relatives and friends present. The charming bride-to-be was showered with a pleasing variety of pretty and useful gifts. After games were played refreshments were served. All reported a pleasant time and wished the bride-to-be many years of happiness in her wedded life.

Club's 40th Birthday
Highland, April 7.—A mock wedding featured the entertainment provided by the committee, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. Charles Champlin, Mrs. Martha C. Schantz and Mrs. M. E. Maynard, arranged for the 40th anniversary of the organization of the U. D. Society which was held Saturday afternoon at the Stone House home of Mrs. Hasbrouck and Miss Laura Harcourt, two long time members. The principals in the wedding, Mrs. Martha C. Schantz, who was "hired" to sing "O Promise me," and play the wedding march from Lohengrin, wore an afternoon gown of green crepe, cerise flowers and long white gloves. The minister who, in silk hat and robes entered and took "his" place on a stool, was Mrs. D. H. Starr. The bride, Mrs. M. E. Maynard, in white silk with long veil and carrying a large bouquet of Easter lilies, entered on the arm of her "father," Mrs. Charles Champlin. She was met at the altar by the bridegroom and best man, Miss Bertha Wisemiller, as the groom, was Major Doolittle, and the "best man," Mrs. A. Jerome Pratt. The bride party was preceded by the flower girl, Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail, in salmon taffeta and carrying a basket of flowers. She wore a large picture hat of brown straw. The ring was on a cushion carried by Mrs. Oliver J. Tillson, dressed in a cadet suit. Mrs. Philip Wilklow was bridesmaid and wore flowered chiffon and carried a bouquet of pussy willows. The usher was Mrs. J. J. Ennst. The "men" taking part were in full dress suits, silk hats and wore Easter lilies and maiden hair ferns in their buttonholes. Following the ceremony which called for many promises on both sides, the couple received the congratulations of those present. Then came the initiation of a new member, Mrs. William Waterbury. The committee for the initiation, Mrs. D. H. Starr and Mrs. J. W. Feeter, were sworn in dresses and hats of 1896 and the candidate successfully responded to all the requirements and was received as the 24th member. Stunts were featured next with each one telling a story or entertaining in some form. Refreshments were served in cafeteria fashion. The bridal party occupied one table while the others were seated at small tables about the room. Pictures of the bridal party were taken and then of the entire group including the hostess' little grandchildren, Joan and Leo Hasbrouck. There were 20 members and six former members present. Letters of regret were read from Mrs. Hasbrouck, Helen and Miss Ada Van Nostrand of Highland; Mrs. Grace Reed Ritchie, Bogota, N. J.; Miss Florence LeFevre, New Orleans, La.; Mrs. Dora R. Haight, Round Lake; Mrs. Margaret Hayden, Newark, N. J.; Mrs. Charles LeFevre, Winter Park, Fla.; Mrs. Harcourt Pratt, Sebring, Fla.; and a message from Mrs. Willard Rivenburgh, Poughkeepsie. The former members present were Mrs. William Wilcox, Mrs. Byron Lane, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Wilbur Haviland, Mrs. Edward Quimby, Marlborough; Mrs. Jennie Hasbrouck, Miss Rowena Harcourt, Highland. The active members: Miss Bertha Wisemiller, president; Mrs. Charles Champlin, Mrs. J. J. Forces Mobilize in California

Los Angeles, April 9 (AP)—Regular Townsend forces mobilized today for a counter-attack against insurgents in Los Angeles, while the old age pension organization in Oregon underwent a drastic shakeup. George C. Highley, deposed president of Los Angeles Club 93, whose 26,000 membership is the largest in the national Townsend movement, is holding daily noon meetings in which he is leading a separate old age pension drive. As a "counter attraction," meetings at the same hour were scheduled by Hal M. Siemons, acting regional Townsend director for 11 states. Siemons declared Club 93 officially outlawed.

Pilots Ask Weather Help
Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Transport pilots want more weather reporting stations in New York state, a survey just completed by the Federal Bureau of Air Commerce revealed today. The pilots, replying to a questionnaire of the Air Navigation Bureau, declared that additional weather service is needed at Poughkeepsie, Ticonderoga and Utica; and at unspecified points in the Albany-Boston, Albany and Albany-Syracuse airways. The questionnaire included all pilots holding transport licenses.

Air Force Funds
London, April 9 (AP)—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, told the House of Commons today that an additional $10,000,000 (about $50,000,000) probably would be required for the Royal Air Force for this year. He said he anticipated that the estimates for 1937-38 would substantially exceed the aggregate for this year's original estimates.

Clintondale Fire Threatened Village
Fire of undetermined origin early Wednesday morning destroyed a large barn and garage in the heart of the village of Clintondale and threatened to spread to several stores and residences before it was brought under control by the Clintondale fire department aided by the Highland fire department which had responded to a call for aid. The barn owned by Walter Elmendorf, burned to the ground with all its contents, including an automobile, some farm equipment, and a large quantity of stored household articles. The fire had been burning for some time before discovered by Adam Roland, a neighbor, but by the time then arrived the fire had gained such headway it was impossible to bring it under control and the firemen devoted their efforts to preventing the blaze from spreading to nearby buildings in which they

Two Youths Jailed
Huntsville, Ark., April 9 (AP)—Two youths were jailed here today accused of the "whisky playing" of a six-year-old boy. Sheriff Virgil Weather named the prisoners as Russell Beavers, 13, and Dennis Davidson, 17. The sheriff quoted Inman East of Kingman, father of the dead boy, as saying his son died a few hours after telling his parents he had been lured from the East home and forced to drink about a half pint of moonshine whisky. The youths denied guilt.

3 WPA Workers Killed
La Salle, Ill., April 9 (AP)—A cave-in today killed three WPA workers employed in excavation for the foundation of an addition to the La Salle-Perry township high school. One body was recovered half an hour later. Two other workers were known to be in the pit. A fourth man, buried up to his neck, was brought out alive.

Annual Banquet of the Silver Palace League Will Be a Big Affair

A special meeting of the prize committee and banquet committee of the Silver Palace Bowling League will be held at Emerick's saloon tonight at 7:30 to complete plans for the annual banquet to be held Tuesday night at Huling's Barn.

Former Mayor Eugene B. Carey and Alderman-at-Large John Senewick have been chosen to make the principal addresses of the evening. The toastmaster will be Kenneth Van Aken, president of the Silver Palace League.

A turkey supper will be served at 7 o'clock. Following the speaking program and awarding of prizes two big time vaudeville acts will be presented by Mark Huling. Dancing will conclude the evening's festivities.

There has been a big demand for tickets to the affair, which gives promise of being the outstanding bowling event ever held in the city. A precedent will be established in that the ten pinboys will be present as guests of the league, each team having one pinboy as its guest.

Prizes will go to the winning teams—Half Moons, Molloy's and Chevrolet's—in the order named; to Rand Kelder for highest average score and to the highest average bowlers on the various teams.

Plans Exhibition Tour for Joe Louis

New York, April 9 (AP)—Joe Louis today had an added incentive for making Max Schmeling in June and then taking the world's heavyweight crown from James J. Braddock in the fall.

Jeff Dickson, former Jackson, Miss. sports promoter, has promised the Brown Bomber a tour of 11 countries if he gets past Schmeling and Braddock. Louis is willing. So are his managers and Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, which has Joe under contract until 1940.

Starting in October, Dickson, who arrived in New York yesterday, plans to have Louis appear in exhibitions in England, France, Portugal, Spain, Denmark, Switzerland, Sweden, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Poland.

SPORTS BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Chicago—The White Sox were due today to await the opening of their spring series with the Cubs at Comiskey Park tomorrow. Manager Jimmy Dykes was satisfied with the condition of all his players with the exception of Zeke Bonura, whose holdout campaign left him short of work necessary to sharpen his batting eye.

Nashville, Tenn.—There was a chance that the Chicago Cubs would be unable to keep their engagement with Nashville today due to the condition of the playing field. If the contest is cancelled, Charlie Grimm planned to hustle his squad aboard the first train for Chicago. Lon Warneke and Charles Root were Grimm's pitching choices.

Washington—The capital fans were plainly cold and disgruntled after seeing their Senators defeated 2-0 by the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday. The visitors plunked Pitcher Buck Newsum for eight hits and four runs, the infield threw all over the lot and Clark Griffith's best hitters couldn't connect. The teams meet again today.

Durham, N. C.—Rookies played two of the infield positions as the Detroit Tigers beat Cincinnati 2-0 yesterday. Tommy Bridges was Micker Cochran's mound selection today; while Al Hollingsworth, recovered from an attack of the flu, was named to start for the Reds.

Pulaski, Va.—The Cleveland Indians and New York Giants moved another jump nearer home today, with the Tribe depending on Oral Hildebrand to hold Bill Terry's men in check while they try to avenge yesterday's jolt. Fred Fitzsimmons was scheduled to be on the mound for the Giants. The series now stands at six games apiece.

Richmond, Va.—The Yankees were here today for a game with the Richmond Colts—their last contest before moving into New York for the pre-season series with the Dodgers. Vito Tamulis, southpaw pitcher, will finish his conditioning with Birmingham but plans to join the Yanks for the opening game in Washington.

Brooklyn-SPHAS Continue Their Series Over Week-end

Layman Berkwitz Spring Surprise and Take 2nd Game, 24-18

Fighting with their "backs to the wall," the Layman-Berkwitz outfit of Newburgh, scheduled to take a second beating from the Middletown Y. M. C. A. team, in the play-off series at Wallkill Prison for the championship of the Wallkill Valley League, surprised the fans Wednesday night by winning their game 24 to 18.

The winners put up a defense that was too much for the Middletown, while on the offense their two star forwards, Embler and Corbett, led an attack that gave Newburgh an even break the first half and walked away with the second 13 to 7. Embler scored five times from the field while Corbett connected for three field goals.

For Middletown Wittman and Knoll accounted for all their field goals, making four and three respectively.

Newburgh's victory Wednesday night ties the series at one each. The third and deciding game is scheduled for tonight at 8:30.

Benefit Game Tonight, Simpson Still Silent

Sports writers were in a quandry today as to whether Sergeant James V. Simpson would accept the challenge of his friends and Commissioner Carlton S. Preston to pitch for the police in the softball game between the cops and 156th Field Artillery National Guardsmen tonight at the new armory on Manor avenue. Game time is 8:15.

For more than a week, the Sergeant has remained silent on whether or not he'd take to the mound against the khaki clad softballers who will clash with the minions of the law for the benefit of the Red Cross food relief fund.

The "Sarge" is an ardent baseball man, and is the coach of the regular police team that competes against Newburgh every summer. He used to play, but fear of achy joints keeps him out of the national pastime any more. However, his friends think he might take a turn in actual competition tonight because softball is regarded as less strenuous.

Commissioner Preston who turned to his first love, the National Guard, instead of staying with the police in their rivalry with the soldiers, has said he'd pitch if the Sergeant would play.

If Sergeant Simpson decided to jump into the game at the last minute, which he might do, the Guardsmen and Commissioner may get a surprise. The police had a good softball team back in 1934. In fact, they were the champions of that year.

Leading Amateur Billiardists Compete

New York, April 9 (AP)—Jacob Ankrom of Detroit, national titleholder, and Eugene Deardorff of St. Louis match strokes today in the opening game of the round-robin schedule bringing together eight of the world's leading amateur cueists for the world's three cushion billiard championship.

The second game on the afternoon schedule brings together Alfred La Gache of France, the defending titleholder, and Edmond Soussa of New York and Egypt, national balk-line champion.

At night the 22-year-old German star, Arnold Tiedtke, will oppose H. J. Robyns of Holland in the opening game. The night cap will be between Edward Lee of New York, former titleholder, and Emil Zaman of Belgium.

All games, which will be played at the New York Athletic Club, will be for 50 points.

Bailey Wins Over Preston in "Y" Pool

Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Watts Bailey won the winners' side of the Business Men's Pocket Billiard Tournament now being conducted at the "Y." To win this semi-final match of the tourney, Bailey defeated Carl Preston by a score of 100-90.

Bailey will now play the winner of the losers' side of the tournament for the championship of the tourney. The winner of the losers' side of the tournament has not yet been decided. In his march to the winner's side of the tourney, Bailey has defeated A. C. Quimby, Gullert Alexander and Johnny Whitaker besides Preston.

The only comment Sergeant Simpson has made is that he hopes the National Guard turns the diamond around and opens the door to the drill shed so that the heavy hitters on the police team can have the full benefit of the hitting ground.

Tom Yawkey Would Like to Spend His Money as He Pleases

New York, April 9 (AP)—If it's not asking too much, Tom Yawkey, millionaire owner of the Boston Red Sox, would like to spend his money as he pleases without too much criticism from the other owners in the American League.

Yawkey doesn't want to make anything of this. He merely wants it made clear that "with the exception of the deal for Joe Cronin, every price I have been quoted as paying for ball players has been grossly exaggerated, and even if they hadn't it would be my own private concern." It is generally accepted that Yawkey has spent $3,500,000 on the club since 1932.

Not Going Broke

"Everybody's worrying about my going broke," Yawkey said. "And while I appreciate their interest, I don't think there's much chance of that. I'm not kicking about paying and unless I completely upset the balance of power in the league I don't think this adverse criticism is justified."

Yawkey admitted that "two or three officials of other clubs in the league" had complained about the policy of the Red Sox. From now on Yawkey hopes to be able to hold the Red Sox without having to rely too much on his fortune. He said that the club was planning to take on additional working agreements with other clubs whenever Billy Evans, who is in charge of this work for the club, can effect satisfactory deals.

He is still dreaming about a pennant for Boston, he admitted, and thinks that with good breaks he might realize his dream this season.

Kathryn Hemphill Is Favorite at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., April 9 (AP)—An up and coming young golfer from Columbia, S. C., Kathryn Hemphill who emerged from the Florida campaign with surprising victories, was favored today to win the North and South women's title as the tournament entered the quarter finals.

Co-medalist with Deborah Verry, Worcester, Mass., Miss Hemphill easily won her opening round of match play yesterday's 8 to 6 from Lucille Leader, of Aberdeen, N. C. Today she opposes Mary Kuhn, Pittsburgh, who defeated Mrs. Karl Scheldt, Merion, Pa., 7 and 6.

Miss Verry, winner of this year's Mid-South crown, advanced with a 3 to 2 victory over Eline Nielsen, Hackensack, N. J., and today was paired with Patricia Dennis, Boston, who eliminated Helen Waring of Pinehurst, 5 and 3, in an upset yesterday.

The other matches brought together Jane Cochran, Greenville, S. C., and Estelle Lawson, Chapel Hill, N. C., the defending champion, and Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., and Betty Abernathy, Pittsburgh.

In the opening round Miss Cochran won from Laura Robbins, Boston, 4 and 3; Miss Lawson turned back Mrs. Edward Stevens, Greenwich, Conn., 3 and 2; Miss Bauer defeated Mrs. Sarah Fowles Wadsworth, Pittsburgh, 1 up, and Miss Abernathy conquered Mrs. William Hockenjos, Jr., West Orange, N. J., on the 19th hole.

Indianapolis Players Lead in Bowling Meet

Indianapolis, April 9 (AP)—The Host City was the "most" city on the standing board of the American Bowling Congress Tournament today as Indianapolis bowlers held two first places and a second in the classic.

Pyramiding strikes in the closing frames of each game, the Falls City Hi Bu team of Indianapolis grabbed the top position in the five-man event with 1,009. The games were 1,033, 1,008 and 1,048.

Twenty-one year-old Johnny Murphy, a former pin boy in Indianapolis, took first in the all events with a 2,006 total and Ray Fox moved into second in the singles with 728.

Tonight the Pabst Blue Ribbons of Chicago will attempt to give first place in the team competition back to the Pabst "family" as they take the drives to attend the relocation of Pabst of New York to second place. The Easterners led the tournament for almost two weeks until last night.

The Southern Pacific Mineralites of San Francisco, with Ora Mayer, last year's all-event winner, in the lineup, placed second in last night's shooting with 2,909.

Mayer got away to a slow start in defense of his crown by getting only 581 in the team event.

Why should I—or any smoker—pay more when he buys a cigar like PHILLIES? It has just the mild rich Havana flavor I like.

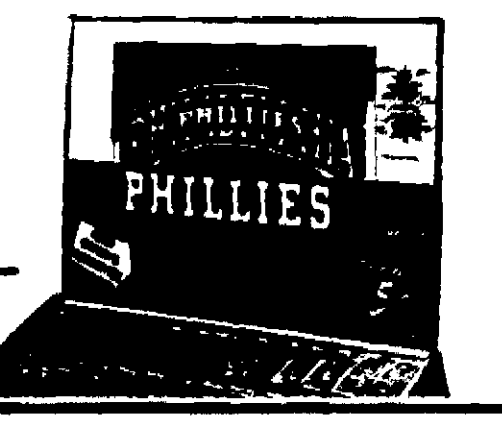

By switching to PHILLIES, I've not only cut my cigar costs in half, but am getting a better smoke. And I'm pretty hard to please, too.

Millions of men who smoke Bayuk PHILLIES could easily afford to pay double and even triple its price. But they don't buy cigars on price. They buy the cigar that best suits their taste.

PHILLIES—now 5c—gives them real Havana... mild, mellow Long-filler Havana blended with the finest Domestic. No Havana scraps! No "Imported" substitutes.

Before you again pay 5c or more for any cigar—you owe it to yourself to try PHILLIES. More men smoke it than any other cigar in America.

Hommell Action Continued in Court

An action to recover $3,000 from the town of Saugerties for the death of Oscar Hommell of West Saugerties, who was fatally burned while fighting a fire at his home in February of 1935, was continued Wednesday afternoon before Judge Frederick G. Traver. A. J. Cook appeared for the town and Seth Cole for the petitioner, Mrs. Hommell, widow of deceased. Recovery was sought under a provision of the town law which provides that a volunteer fireman who is fatally injured while in the performance of his duty shall receive the sum of $3,000 from the town in which the fire department is maintained.
The unusual situation in the present case which will have to be determined by the court is whether Mr. Hommell, engaged in attempting to extinguish a fire in his own home, was acting as a member of the Centerville Fire Department or whether he was acting only as any individual would if his property were threatened by fire.
Petitioner contends that Mr. Hommell was a member of the Volunteer Fire Department and when he found fire in his home sent a friend to notify the fire department and then returned to the task of extinguishing the fire. They contend that as soon as the fire department had been summoned he became engaged in the task of fighting the fire as a member of the department and should be compensated.
The defendant contends that any act which he performed there prior to the arrival of the department was done as owner of the premises and for the protection of his own property and that even though he had not been a member of the volunteer department he would have been bound to act to protect his own property.
Several witnesses were sworn to testify as to the happenings at the Hommell place that evening and also several witnesses were sworn to testify as to the duties of a volunteer fireman.
The facts brought out were that Mr. Hommell returned with a friend from a fishing trip and was engaged in preparing something to eat when an oil stove became ignited. He sent his friend to a neighbor to telephone for the fire department and then proceeded to fight the fire.

POLITICS at Random

TALK of establishing a "coalition government" at Washington is reviving amid many mysterious hints of backstage overtures and underground negotiation.
The subject is most intriguing. In theory, it would be a grand thing for all of the ablest men in the country to assemble, regardless of party, and put themselves shoulder to shoulder in a common endeavor to lift the nation out of the depression.
Looked at practically and in the light of experience, however, the proposal is seen to embrace many serious difficulties.
In the first place, there is no assurance that any impressive number of first-raters would be willing to coalesce. In the second place there is the question whether they could get along together for more than five minutes if they did. Finally, there is the problem whether the long established party system could possibly be torn down to permit a real coalition.
It is an enticing thing to talk about, and it might happen, but few practical politicians appear to be taking the prospect very seriously.
Has Happened in Cabinet
OF COURSE there would be nothing difficult or novel about adherents of both political parties sitting together in the cabinet. That has happened often.
Mr. Hoover had in his cabinet two men—Attorney General Mitchell and Secretary Adams—who were listed as Democrats. Mr. Roosevelt has in his cabinet two men—Secretaries Wallace and Ickes—who have been Republicans.
It even is possible to conceive of a situation (although it does not put a strain on the imagination) where a cabinet might be composed of such men as Alfred E. Smith, Andrew Mellon, John P. Davis and James W. Wadsworth; or, conversely, such men as William E. Borah, Hugh S. Johnson, Robert M. La Follette and Harry L. Hopkins.
Arrangements like these, however, hardly fit the definition of "coalition government" as it is understood in those European countries where it is practiced. What happens there is that the group includes, not the discontended elements, but the constituted leadership of two or more political parties.
Such a conception would more likely begin by bringing Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt, with their principal adherents, together in one cabinet.
Unlike American Theory
NO ONE has suggested that such a step would be either possible or desirable. It may work, in some instances, in foreign countries, but the practice of party rule is deeply rooted in these United States.
Whether it is a good thing or not, the theory that the President and his official family must stand together and think as much alike as possible, is as much a part of the American method as is the party system itself.
During that brief initial period before party organizations took form, there was a real "coalition government" in this country; Thomas Jefferson sat across the cabinet table from Alexander Hamilton under the presidency of Washington.
Now even the far-removed disciples of these two seem either unable or unwilling to "go along" together in governmental effort.
After Mr. Harding was elected president he had a fleeting idea of coalition. He announced he would summon to Washington the "best minds" of the country. But all the best minds turned out to be Republican minds.
Coalition is a beautiful word,—when spoken of in the future, and no attempt made to apply it specifically.

DOGS DETOUR NEVERGREENS AND SHRUBS SPRAYED WITH "BLACK LEAF 40"

There is one positive way to keep dogs from staining shrubbery and evergreens. Just mix 1 1/2 teaspoons of "Black Leaf 40" with a gallon of water and spray on the lower branches. When sprayed on bushes or trees or other places it is harmless to dogs, but they detour around the place because they don't like the odor.
